What About The Proposed Charter?

(To determine just what the proposed charter will do for the city of Kingston, the columns of The Freeman will be open to any question on the document. The questions will be turned over to the Charter Revision Commission for answering and will appear in this column from time to time as they are asked and answered.)

Q—I have heard that Kingston has 64 bosses running the city government. Al Smith, fighting for charter reform in New York, said in his recent book that "Too many cooks spoil the broth" in municipal government as well as in the kitchen. I think if you listed the 64 bosses people would have a better idea of what you are trying to get at.

A—Following is the list of elective officers and appointed commissioners under the present charter, and a list of those who will discharge the same duties under the new charter:

Present Charter	Number
Board of Police Commissioners	5
Board of Fire Commissioners	3
Board of Public Works	5
Water Board	5
Board of Public Welfare	5
Board of Health	5
Board of Education	9
Laboratory Committee	5
Board of Examining Plumbers	3
Civil Service Commission	3
Zoning Board	3
Elective:
Mayor	1
Common Council	14
Commissioner of Finance	0
City Judge	1
Total	67

Proposed Charter	Number
Police Chief	1
Fire Chief	1
Superintendent Public Works	1
Superintendent Water Dept.	1
Commissioner Public Welfare	1
Health Officer	1
Board of Education	9
Laboratory Committee	5
Board of Examining Plumbers	3
Civil Service Commission	3
Zoning Board	3
Mayor	1
Common Council	5
Commissioner of Finance	1
City Judge	1
Total	47

It will be seen from the above tabulation that the new charter will decrease the number of municipal officials of the city from 67 to 37, a decrease of 30.

GOVERNMENT MAY DROP WALKER TAX EVASION

New York, June 5 (AP)—The New York American says in a copyrighted story today that the government will drop its income tax evasion case against former Mayor James J. Walker in the near future on the ground that the charges against him cannot be substantiated.

Four grand juries have refused to indict Walker on the evidence presented by the United States attorney's office, and no work has been done on the case since the March grand jury rejected it, according to the American.

The newspaper reports that Attorney General Cummings has asked for a full report on the case and that he was expected to order it dropped entirely, adding that the case is already considered closed at the Federal offices here.

The charges grew out of Samuel Seabury's investigation of New York city's government three years ago. Walker resigned his office with dramatic suddenness in the midst of the removal hearings which followed the investigation and went to Europe, where he married Betty Compton, the actress, after his first wife obtained a divorce. He has been living in England and southern France since.

Treasury Receipts.

Washington, June 5 (AP)—The position of the treasury on June 3 was: Receipts $121,310,870.91; expenditures $25,281,925.61; balance $22,028,945.30. Customs receipts for the month $2,454,765.50. Receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1) $2,366,832,304.47; expenditures $6,537,816,049.57 (including $2,280,373,623.68 of emergency expenditures); excess of expenditures $2,170,977,143.10. Gross debt $24,170,366,782.28, an increase of $93,311,266.88 over the previous day. Gold assets $3,876,685,417.62.

Kidnap Threats

New York, June 5 (AP)—Harry M. Warner, president of Warner Brothers, was enroute to Hollywood today with his wife and two daughters to escape what a police official said were kidnap threats. Chief of Police Michael Silverstein of Mount Vernon, where the motion picture magnate has an estate, said Warner had received two telephone calls on the night of May 29, threatening the kidnapping of his daughters, Betty May, 15, and Lita, 9.

Million-Dollar May Be Paid

Boston, June 5 (AP)—The last hope of Abraham Parker, and Morton and Irving Miller, convicted murderers, of escaping death in the electric chair, probably tomorrow, was dashed today when Justice Stanley E. Quin of the Massachusetts supreme court dismissed a petition of Parker's counsel for a writ of habeas corpus, and denied a motion for stay of execution.

Laval Fails to Form New French Ministry Today

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press) Paris, June 5—Pierre Laval, foreign minister, failed today in his presidential assignment of organizing a new French government to succeed the overthrown cabinet of Fernand Bouisson.

Bouisson had lasted in office only three days and twenty hours. Laval, hesitatingly accepting the commission of President Lebrun, tried for nearly 24 hours to gather together ministers for a cabinet but, at the end of that time, he was forced to tell the president he had failed.

As soon as Laval had left the Elysee Palace, the president began calling other prospects for the premiership to his study. Laval advised the president to try again inducing Bouisson to return to the premiership, but it was said that Lebrun might be obliged to invite leftist leaders, preferably former Premier Edouard Herriot and former Premier Joseph Paul Boncour, to take up the task.

The flow of gold reserves from the Bank of France, which brought about the cabinet crises, increased again today after slackening during the days that Bouisson was in power.

Action for Damages And Counter Claim Results from Crash

Harry D'Aigle, of Kingston, has brought an action in supreme court to recover damages from John Hendrickson for damages to a new Essex car which was wrecked on April 6, 1934, near the West Park orphanage. The defendant, Hendrickson, in turn brings a counter claim for damages to his car, a Dodge.

Mr. D'Aigle asks $400 damages alleged to have been done to his car and also for loss of time and for injuries suffered. The defendant asks for $250.

On the evening of April 6, 1934, Mr. D'Aigle with his wife were enroute from New Paltz to Kingston in an Essex coupe which was just two weeks old. They were proceeding north on route 9-W. Near the West Park orphanage was a large milk truck parked. Plaintiff alleges that he was on his extreme right of the road when he saw a car approach coming south. He observed that it was about to pass the milk truck which was standing still and he testified that from the speed of the approaching car he decided to stop his own car. He testified he had stopped his car and warned his wife to brace herself for an accident when the Dodge cut sharply to its left and struck the front end of the Essex car. The Dodge then went over an embankment and headed back toward the roadway. Mrs. D'Aigle was injured and Mr. D'Aigle was also injured and was treated at the Kingston Hospital by Dr. Snyder. An occupant of the Hendrickson car was also cut and taken to the hospital.

Mr. D'Aigle testified that after the accident he was stunned for a time and then came too and saw the injured man removed and that Mr. Hendrickson also left the scene. Plaintiff stopped a passing car and asked that State Troopers be notified of the accident. The milk truck continued on after the accident.

Later plaintiff testified Mr. Hendrickson came and also Sergeant Lockhart of the Troopers. While the Troopers were there Mr. D'Aigle said Mr. Hendrickson stated the D'Aigle car had crossed over the roadway.

Two Are Charged With Disturbance

About 2 o'clock this morning the Kingston Hospital authorities called up police headquarters and said that there was a man out in front of the hospital on Broadway making such a disturbance that the patients were unable to sleep. Officer Sammons responded to the call and arrested John O'Reilly, who lives across from the hospital. The charge against O'Reilly was that of public intoxication and he was lodged in the county jail. Later this morning Judge Callahan in police court adjourned the hearing to Friday morning and fined him $10.

Tuesday night the police responded to a call from North Front street where Mrs. Rickertson had placed her daughter under arrest on a charge of disorderly conduct in seeing her friend and attempting to kick the front door in. The young woman was sentenced to pay a fine of $10 this morning in police court.

By CLARENCE M. WRIGHT (Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, June 5 (AP)—A possibility that the government's taxing power might be used to effectuate a new, long-range NRA program was disclosed today by Chairman Doughton (D., N. C.) of the House ways and means committee as administration leaders sought legislation for a temporary skeletonized recovery organization.

Meanwhile, it was said at the White House that proposals submitted by 30 or 40 experts for extension of NRA code principles had not been found to conform to the Supreme Court limitation. It was added the door was not necessarily closed to further exploration.

May Use Taxation

As Doughton awaited conferences with Senate and administration chiefs on "stop-gap" legislation, he discussed the situation with newspapermen. One asked if "it would be possible to use the taxing powers of the government to enforce NRA code requirements."

"I wouldn't be surprised," he replied. He and Speaker Byrnes, however, made two things clear: First, there was as yet no determination upon the kind of permanent NRA, and second, there was no final decision that there even would be a permanent NRA.

"I think if Congress remains in session long enough, there may be something," Doughton elaborated. "But we don't want to go beyond our constitutional limitations. We want to scan carefully every avenue through which we could find an effective substitute for NRA."

He expected in conferences today with Donald R. Richberg and representatives of the Senate Finance Committee to agree upon a temporary NRA measure. It was "foreseen" that this would be Senate resolution—drafted by Senator Clark (D., Mo.)—extending NRA until April 1, 1936, or 3½ months.

But that resolution appeared to be in for a re-writing. Despite insistence by Richberg that the House accept it, the Democratic chiefs refused. They planned to revise it so that in addition to extending NRA 3½ months it would permit continuance of voluntary codes.

President Roosevelt turned over all suggestions for the future of NRA to Attorney General Cummings and Solicitor General Reed. They and aides thus far have failed to find any one plan or a composite plan which meets the legal requirements.

In ordering all government work to conform to the code principles, it was emphasized today at the White House that this would constitute little more than one per cent of total industry.

Little Response

The White House reported little response to suggestions of Hugh S. Johnson, former NRA administrator, that the people inform the President of their wishes on the recovery organization.

Meanwhile, other points in the program described by the President as "stop-gap" were getting prompt consideration. Doughton called his ways and means committee into session to consider a minor liquor tax bill already pending before it. He hoped to include in that bill language which would let the government, through its power to license and tax liquor dealers, establish at least a modicum of control, held necessary because of the death of the Federal Alcohol Control Administration.

Dissect arose, too, at the President's insistence that the Guffey coal stabilization and Wagner labor disputes bills must be enacted.

It was learned that at yesterday's White House conference, Chairman O'Connor (D-N.Y.) of the house rules committee told the President he would agree to let the Wagner bill reach the floor but at the moment he did not know of one other committeeman who would vote the same way.

Asked by newspapermen if he thought a drive like that which instituted the Blue Eagle would be put on, urging consumers to buy only from those who complied with the voluntary codes, Byrnes replied:

"I have no information about that. But I naturally assume that they will consider everything that might make voluntary codes a success."

Drinks on Amendments

At his press conference, Speaker Byrnes remarked "I don't think there is any likelihood of a constitutional amendment."

When asked if the present session of Congress would be asked to enact a permanent, substitute NRA law he replied:

"That may be so."

"Well, you expect some sort of bill," a newspaperman said.

"I wouldn't put it exactly that way," Byrnes replied, "but it is a strong possibility."

He said he hoped the ways and means committee would approve the "stop-gap" bill tomorrow so it could be passed by the House Friday after no more than two hours of debate.

Man-hunters Act Swiftly Aldermen Adopted The To Break Tacoma Case, School Budget and Tax Ransom Bill Is Reported Rate Is Fixed At $7.20

Former Portland Big-Time Bootlegger Is Sought According to Portland Police Chief, But U. S. Men Are Silent.

MYSTERY TRIPS

Federal Operatives Come and Go on Mysterious Auto Trips; Bill Is Identified.

By LELAND HANNUN (Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press) Tacoma, Wash., June 5—Hot on the trail of George Weyerhaeuser's kidnappers, after the telltale appearance of one of the 20,000 ransom bills in eastern Oregon, the nation's man-hunters labored today to "break the case wide open" by tomorrow evening.

A former big time Portland bootlegger was reported by Capt. Jack Keegan of the Portland police detectives to be sought in the belief he might be the "pot-bellied man" described by the nine-year-old victim as one of his kidnappers.

Captain Keegan did not know whether Department of Justice operatives were working on his tip and the government men refused to comment.

But I'm taking plenty of stock in it," Keegan added.

Police reportedly became interested in him because he had not been known to have been seen since the kidnapping and a still of his recently was seized in the vicinity of Issaquah, Wash., where George was freed.

Captain Keegan said the man is a bootlegger and run-runner familiar with all of the out-of-the-way roads of Oregon, Washington and Idaho.

Attention was asserted directed to him when an informant told police his description fitted that given by the Weyerhaeuser boy of one of his abductors.

He was a member of one of the last Pacific northwest run running gangs to be broken up, and it was suggested members of the ring might have turned to kidnapping when their income from illicit liquor was broken off.

Mysterious Trips

Several government men made mysterious trips by automobile from their temporary headquarters here last night. They returned without visible physical evidence.

Belief that a sensational development was near came from the comment of a Department of Justice spokesman late yesterday. He asserted the case "will break wide open within 48 hours."

The "G-man" refused to indicate whether the break would be the arrest of a suspect. He intimated the kidnappers are believed to be a Pacific northwest gang, but he would not indicate their identity or probable whereabouts.

This was after the agents had learned a $20 San Francisco Federal Reserve note taken Sunday night at Huntington in eastern Oregon was part of the $200,000 Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Weyerhaeuser, Jr., paid for the return of their son Saturday morning.

The bill was identified by Blaine Coles, vice president of the First National Bank in Portland, when it arrived at the bank from Huntington. It had been sent in by T. C. Hunter, Union Pacific System station agent, who said a man about 30 years old, smooth shaven and wearing a tan suit and brown hat, tendered it to C. E. Hannan, telegraph operator, in paying for a ticket to Salt Lake City.

Boarded a Train

Hunter said the man boarded an eastbound train at 10:10 that night. There was no indication that the man arrived at Salt Lake City, and authorities were believed to be checking in Utah, eastern Oregon and Southern Idaho to determine if he bought the ticket as a ruse and never left Oregon or dropped off along the route to the Utah metropolis.

Department of Justice operatives here were intensely interested in the finding of the ransom bill.

The Huntington description of the man who gave the ransom bill, did not fit closely the description of any of the three suspects broadcast in the kidnap manhunt.

Common Council Unanimously Approves School Budget Prepared by Board of Education and Also Confirms Sale of Bonds.

LOWEST RATE

Bonds Amounting to $150,000 Were Sold at Lowest Interest Rate in City's History.

The Common Council Tuesday evening unanimously approved the school budget as prepared by the Board of Education, and fixed the tax rate at $7.20 per thousand valuation. The council also confirmed the sale of $150,000 in city bonds to Gibbons & Company, a New York city bond house, whose bid was $150,300 with an interest rate of $1.90 per hundred dollars, the lowest interest rate on city bonds in the history of Kingston. Owing to the absence of Alderman-at-large John J. Schwenk, who is in Syracuse attending the State Mayors' Conference, the council elected Alderman Paul Zucca of the First Ward as presiding officer at the meeting last night.

A petition from residents of Gill street and vicinity asking that the zoning laws be amended to permit a store being conducted at 43 Gill street, corner East Union street, was read and referred to the laws and rules committee.

Labor Mass Meeting

The Central Trades and Labor Council of this city petitioned the council for permission to use the Kingston Municipal Auditorium to hold a mass meeting for the purpose of discussing the Wagner labor bill and the Connery 30-hour bill. The council granted the petition.

Plan Basketball Season

Kingston Post of the American Legion sent in a communication asking that it be granted the use of the Kingston Municipal Auditorium for the 1935-36 basketball season. Plans for holding professional basketball here again next season are now being made. The request was referred to the building and supply committee.

"Not For Publication"

At the last meeting of the council, Alderman Epstein introduced a resolution that the local emergency relief bureau furnish the council with a copy of the administrative payroll. Last night a communication was read from the ERB in which it was stated that under the rules and regulations of the State TERA the records were not for publication, but the local committee advised that any city official who was interested could call at the ERB office and could inspect all records.

"Broadway Elimination"

At the May meeting of the Central Business Association a resolution was adopted opposing the elimination of the Broadway railroad crossing by depressing the street. A copy of this resolution was forwarded to the council and read at the meeting and ordered filed.

Tree Damaged House

Mrs. Eric Gray Eiling of Ellenville wrote that when the tree at Academy Park fell some months ago it had crashed into her mother's house on Maiden Lane doing considerable damage. The house had since been repaired at a cost of $400, and she believed the city should make some adjustment. The letter was referred to the corporation counsel and auditing committee.

Bond Sale Confirmed

City Treasurer C. Ray Everett sent in a communication calling attention to the city bond sale and giving a list of bids received. The bonds were sold at par with a premium of $300 and bearing an interest rate of $1.90 per hundred, to Gibbons & Company, a New York bond house. This bond sale of $150,000 work and home relief bonds was authorized some time ago by the council, and the sale was confirmed by the council last night.

Low School Tax

The council also adopted the school budget fixing the tax rate at $7.20, the lowest school tax rate in Kingston in years. The budget was adopted by unanimous vote of the council.

Two Claims Rejected

Acting on the advice of Corporation Counsel Matthew V. Cahill the council declined the claim of Edwin Anderson for damage to his car on February 16, due to a fire engine, amounting to $4; and the claim of Hans Hubenthal of 60 West Chestnut street for cost of a wreck pulling his car from the mud on Hudson street on April 10, amounting to $4.

Motions and Resolutions

The following motions and resolutions were introduced and referred to the proper city boards and departments:

By Alderman Reinhard—that board of public works repair South Pine and South Wall streets; fill holes in DeWitt street, and cut weeds on Abbot and DeWitt streets.

Alderman Kelly—that German street be widened, and a light placed in front of 147 Abbot street.

Alderman Kolls and LeMay—that

Kingston Will Entertain New York State Officials For Four Days Next June

L. T. Schoonmaker Will Raze Old Kingston Hotel

Alderman Lyman T. Schoonmaker, building contractor of Lucas avenue, has been awarded the contract to raze the old Kingston Hotel on Crown street, and work will be started demolishing the building on Thursday morning.

The parking grounds, however, will be used as the uptown bus terminal, and Matthew Hasbrouck, who operates the terminal, has been given a three-year lease on the parking grounds.

The Kingston Hotel is one of the most famous of the old hotels in Kingston. It was erected many years ago and has been operated under various managements. Probably it was most popular during the horse and buggy era when it was operated by Frank Cronk.

The hotel has been vacant for some time since Henry Millionig, who was operating it, retired from the hotel management.

The Metropolitan Insurance Company, owner of the hotel, plans to erect a one-story frame building for the use of Matthew Hasbrouck, who has leased the parking grounds for three years. This building will house the uptown bus terminal, a barbershop, a gas station and a restaurant.

Judge William D. Brinnier represented the Metropolitan Insurance Company.

Sense of Duty Lands Deputy Freer in Jail On Charge of Burglary

Deputy Sheriff Ernest Freer of Highland had an unusual experience Tuesday when the tolls of the law reversed as he was performing his duty, landing him in jail.

Attempting to settle a squabble over a bill for garage rent, Freer said he went with Henry Robinson on the advice of Justice S. G. Carpenter to the property of Charles Abbott to help the 28-year-old drill operator procure his car.

Robinson, according to reports, owed $30 to Abbott for garage rent. He had not worked all winter and therefore could not pay. Now he is working and wanted his auto to take him to his job. Abbott would not let him have the car unless he paid the full amount owed.

Robinson was advised by Justice Carpenter, he said yesterday, to take his car as long as he was willing to pay the rent. Deputy Freer went with him to see that he removed it without "breaking the law."

Abbott charged Robinson had removed the staples from the brace holding the lock and had Justice of the Peace Walter Hasbrouck issue a warrant for his arrest on a charge of burglary, third degree. He lodged the same charge against Deputy Freer.

Justice Hasbrouck held Robinson and Deputy Freer for the action of the Grand Jury when they were arraigned before him. Then they were taken to the Ulster county jail. Assistant District Attorney N. Levan Haver had bail at $1,000. They had no trouble raising the security and went back to Highland. The city should make some adjustment. The letter was referred to the corporation counsel and auditing committee.

Origin Bitten By Dog.

Sarto Cragin of 120 Wilbur avenue, reported to the police department Tuesday evening that he had been bitten in the leg by a dog while walking on West O'Reilly street.

Virtual Industrial Paralysis in Toledo

Toledo, O., June 5 (AP)—A condition of virtual industrial paralysis fell upon this city of more than 200,000 population today as union electrical workers went on strike, causing a serious shortage of power.

One after another, huge factories shut down—unable to operate without electricity—and city officials predicted before the day was done more than 20,000 industrial workers would be idle.

The strike was called early today by the Electrical Workers Union at the Toledo Edison Company which supplies 35 per cent of Toledo's industries with power. Officials of the company said 450 of their 535 employees joined the walkout, which followed a break-down of efforts to settle a wage controversy between the company and the union.

Oliver Myers, business agent for the union, said it would cooperate if the company is willing to make provision for an uninterrupted supply of power for hospitals, newspapers and the city water works.

Prompt Action on Part of Mayor Heiselman Obviated Necessity of Considering Mayor LaGuardia's Request for N. Y. City.

WORKED HARD

Mayor Heiselman Spent Considerable Time in Effort to Bring Conference Here Next Year.

Kingston will entertain officials of New York cities and villages next June during a four-day stay. So much was determined today when Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman, chairman of the legislative committee of the New York Mayors' Conference, won for this city the opportunity to play host next June. When the temper of the convention was established the cities of Niagara Falls, Rochester and Newburgh withdrew as candidates for the honor, leaving only New York city competing with Kingston. Mayor LaGuardia of New York city was expected at the session in Syracuse early this afternoon to lend his influence toward making the metropolis the convention center next year, but prompt action on the part of Mayor Heiselman, together with the prevalent opinion toward this city brought action in its favor without waiting for Mayor LaGuardia's arrival.

There are 714 officials and their wives present at the convention in Syracuse, representing some 57 cities and 74 villages. The officials include mayors, city clerks, fire chiefs, corporation counsels, etc. While the convention actually lasts only three days, the delegates are present for four arriving the afternoon before and leaving the noon following the sessions. Kingston will play host during the first week of June.

Mayor Heiselman said today that he hoped the hospitality of the city would be displayed to the limit when Kingston is host, and stated that considerable detail would be necessary to take care of such a large delegation. He was convinced that the convention here next year could be a memorable affair and asked all agencies to cooperate to the utmost.

Mayor Heiselman has spent considerable time in an effort to have the State Mayors' Conference hold its 1936 convention in Kingston. Some time before the conference opened in Syracuse he wrote a number of mayors in the cities of the state asking for their support in having the conference select Kingston. The conference is one of the most important held in the state.

The conference holds a three-day session. The conference now being held in Syracuse comprises the 26th annual meeting of the New York State Conference of Mayors and other municipal officers, and in connection with it is being held the annual meeting of the New York State Fire Chiefs' Association, of which organization Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy has served as president during the past year. The annual meeting of the New York State City and Village Clerks' Association; the New York State City and Village Engineers' Association; the annual meeting of the New York State Governmental Purchasing Officials' Association, and a training institute for city and village fire chiefs.

One of the special features of the conference is the special round table conferences for village officials, mayors, managers, councilmen and municipal attorneys.

The conference sessions will be held in the Kingston Municipal Auditorium, it was announced.

Magnetic Gun Detector

Attica, N. Y., June 5 (AP)—A "magnetic gun detector" will be installed at Attica State Prison, west and finest of New York's penal institutions, if the State Department of Correction fills a requisition sent to Albany by Warden William Hunt. The detector sets off a magnetic current and when a visitor passes through with any steel object—even a corset stay—a warning light is flashed in the main gate house. With the device installed in a vestibule outside the first gate, Warden Hunt believes the smuggling of firearms or knives would be impossible. It would have no effect, he regrets, on the smuggling of narcotics, the one other item most feared by prison officials. Attica's population now is around 1,500.

Mother, Son to Hang

Georgetown, Del., June 5 (AP)—A mother and her eldest son, preparing to die on Delaware's gallows Friday, have found solace in religion. For the slaying of the woman's brother more than seven years ago, a crime which the court termed one of the "most vicious in the criminal annals of the state," Mrs. May H. Carey, 52, and Howard Carey, 27, must pay with their lives. The victim was Robert Ditchens, 55; the motive, his $2,000 insurance policy. A second son is serving a life term. The pardon board has turned down their plea for clemency. Governor C. Douglas Brock has shown no inclination to intervene.

Committees for Garden-Card Party

The following committees have been named for the Wiltwyck Chapter, D. A. R., garden-card party to be held Friday, June 14, at 2:30 o'clock at the chapter house:

Receives Degree Of Master of Arts

Washington, D. C., June 5.—Elizabeth Fleming, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Fleming of 295 West Chestnut street, was graduated today from The George Washington University with the degree of Master of Arts, from the School of Education at the University's 114th annual commencement.

The commencement exercises will take place at eight o'clock in the evening in Constitution Hall. Degrees and certificates will be granted to approximately 750 graduates at that time. Dr. Cloyd H. Marvin, president of the university, will present each graduate with a diploma as evidence of the degree conferred, and will deliver the charge to the graduating class.

The commencement was preceded by a week of senior festivities, opening Saturday evening, June 1, when the General Alumni Association of the university gave a reception and dance in honor of the graduates at the Mayflower Hotel. On Sunday evening, June 2, the baccalaureate service was held in the Great Choir of the Washington Cathedral. The Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, delivered the sermon. Monday afternoon, June 3, President Marvin received at the Washington Club in honor of the graduates and their parents. Class night exercises were held Tuesday night, June 4, in the university yard, and were featured by the presentation to the university of a 65-foot flagpole, the gift of the Class of 1935. Awards and prizes were conferred at that time. The following evening the commencement ceremonies took place.

ARDONIA

Ardonia, June 5.—A number of local people attended McCall's show in Modena Monday evening.

The Modena A. C. was again victorious in a baseball game with the Highland Dodgers on Sunday afternoon; score 20-3. Donald Paltridge pitched and Edward Rhinehart received. A good crowd was in attendance.

The Misses Florence and Leah De-groot were callers in Modena, Saturday evening.

Henry Barclay was a caller in Modena on Monday.

Home Destroyed

Ardonia, June 5.—Fire of an unknown origin destroyed the barn of Frank Komme of this place, Monday evening. An alarm was sent in to Modena and Plattkill fire departments. Both companies responded promptly, but the fire had gained such headway they were unable to save the barn. A house also perished in the flames.

Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Meeting

At the city hall, Tuesday night, there was a meeting of Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association, which was largely attended, and among the business matters transacted was the signing of Cordts Hose in the organization for the first time.

The application of Cordts Hose to join the association was welcomed by the body and the vote to take the Ponckhockie firemen into the organization was unanimous.

There was a resolution passed, urging all volunteer companies in Kingston and their officers to join the newly formed Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association. This organization will meet in Walkkill on Tuesday evening, June 11. The association although still in its infancy is composed of 25 companies and 200 members.

There was a selection of a committee composed of one member of each of the various companies from Kingston to go over the old and new charter to ascertain whether there would be any advantage to the firemen in changing it.

William B. Martin, foreman of Excelsior Hose Company, was elected chairman of the committee composed of 10 other members. This body is to hold a meeting within the next two weeks. The time and place will be announced later.

Larry House was appointed chairman of a committee to procure entertainment for Ulster County Day at the Firemen's Home in Hudson the latter part of August.

Charles Reis of Excelsior was endorsed for county vice president at the convention of the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association in Monticello June 18, 19 and 20.

Edward Moran, president of the Volunteers, presided over the meeting.

Aga Khan's Horse Wins English Derby Today With Two-length Lead

Epoca Down, Eng., June 5 (AP)—Justifying the odds that made him one of the shortest priced favorites in English turf history, Bahram, sultan of the Aga Khan, wealthy Indian potentate, drove to a smashing victory over 15 other three-year-olds in the 156th running of the derby today.

Held at 5 to 4 in the betting, the son of Blandford finished the one and one-half miles two lengths clear of Sir Abe Bailey's Robin Goodfellow, a 50 to 1 shot, as the King and Queen and upwards of a half-million of their subjects packed every niche and corner of the rain-soaked Downs.

A half-length back of Robin Goodfellow came Lord Astor Field Trial, held at 3 to 1, showing the way to Thet, also a member of the Aga Khan's stable. Stretched out far to the rear were others, including the third of the Indian potentate's powerful entry, Halran, and Mrs. Corlette Gurney's Assination, the only American-owned horse in the race.

With Freddy Fox, veteran jockey, handling the reins, Bahram ran the distance in two minutes and 36 seconds for his sixth straight victory since coming to the races as a two-year-old. The time was two seconds slower than the track record made by Hyperion in 1933 and equaled last year by Windsor Lad but was considered good in view of the condition of the turf, which was soaked by early morning rain.

The surprise was that the race run by Robin Goodfellow with only a second in the Greenham Plate two months ago to show for his three-year-old campaign, he was away slowly and then ran a great race to get into a challenging position as the field swung into the home stretch. He was no match for Bahram in the final drive, however, but was able to hold Field Trial safe.

Mrs. C. Evans' First Son was the first away from the barrier as Fox dropped Bahram into fifth place back of Scrammer, Fry 2nd, St. Botolph and in front of Field Trial. At the half-mile post First Son still was in front with Bahram far back but going down hill Field Trial took command and rounding Tattenham corner still showed the way. Bahram had moved up to third position, however, with Robin Goodfellow improving fast.

A quarter of a mile from home, Fox let the Aga Khan's colt out a notch and in a few ground eating strides he was in front, never to be headed.

"I am very delighted I have won especially as it's the King's jubilee year," said the beaming head of 100,000,000 Mohammedans as he led his second derby winner through the cheering thousands. He won in 1930 with Blenheim.

From Fox came the words that "Bahram is a great horse. He ran splendidly. I never was in doubt about winning even before we went the front a quarter of a mile from home."

GOES ON TRIAL
Paris, June 5 (AP)—The first important political figure among those accused of helping the late Serge Stavisky beat the law in his Bayonne municipal pawnshop financial machinations, went to trial today. The defendant is Senator Rene Renoult, a former minister of justice, charged with selling his influence to keep the swindler out of jail.

Grammar School Concert Friday

The annual Grammar School Demonstration Concert will be given on Friday afternoon of this week at 3:15 o'clock. The program will include numbers by classes in violin, cornet, clarinet, saxophone and trombone. Last year's classes will be combined into one orchestra which also will give numbers. The vocal selections will be given by the Boys and Girls Glee Clubs. Miss Quinn and Miss Clinton are assisting in the concert, which is promising.

Tickets for the High School concert of "The Messiah" given on Friday evening include the price of admission to the afternoon concert and a ticket for the same.

CONTROL OF FLIES
BEETLES ON VEGETABLES

There is hardly an end to the number of bugs that infest gardens and many are making their appearance already according to the Ulster County Farm Bureau. Fortunately, most of the pests can be controlled by simple and effective spraying or dusting.

A serious pest already appearing in most gardens is the tiny, plump, shiny black, flea beetle. It hops about when disturbed so much like a flea that it has been given a very appropriate name. This pest does more damage than is at first apparent. They riddle the leaves with tiny shot holes. As soon as the beetles or the shot holes are noticed, steps should be taken to combat it.

According to Dr. Hockett of the New York State Experiment Station at Geneva, the beetles feed on a large variety of plants, but are most troublesome on potatoes, tomatoes, cucumbers, egg plant, radishes and cabbage. Some plant diseases are also spread by this beetle. In July and August a second brood may play havoc with potatoes, tomatoes and egg plant.

Fortunately flea beetles dislike leaf surfaces that are covered with any foreign material, such as sprays or dusts. If plants are treated before serious injury occurs and if the leaves are thoroughly coated, the insects are easily held in check. Since the beetles appear suddenly and work fast, it is important to keep close watch, to detect the first signs of invasion. The plants should then be sprayed or dusted as promptly as possible.

Calcium arsenate in Bordeaux mixture is regarded as the safest and most effective spray, while tobacco dust with lime is one of the best dust preparations. As a dust one part of arsenate of lead to eight parts of lime might also be used. Bordeaux mixture can be made by dissolving one ounce of copper sulphate in a gallon of water and adding one ounce of hydrated lime. To this mixture one-half ounce of Calcium arsenate or arsenate of lead should be added. Several commercial preparations are also available which are already mixed, but are necessarily more expensive.

Four More Cases Of Scarlet Fever

During the month of May there were 20 cases of scarlet fever, mostly among pupils at Schools 7 and 8, which were reported to the Board of Health at the city hall. So far this month four additional cases of the disease have been reported, one of a pupil at School 8; another of a pupil in School 7, and two among children of pre-school age.

There are still traces of the epidemic of German measles that raged in Kingston during the winter months when approximately 2,000 cases developed here. During the month of May there were 19 cases of the measles reported here and so far this month one case has been reported.

Bees Won't Buzz Into Raschke's Hive

Wall street seemed to have a corner on the bee market today. The swarm which C. Augustus Raschke attempted to corral Tuesday was still in the tree in front of the Kingston Savings Bank this morning and the improvised hive still hung unattended over the swarm. The cold, rainy weather Tuesday probably was responsible for the lack of activity on the part of that swarm. Mr. Raschke visited the scene early in the morning but found he had been unable to entice the bees from the limb on which the huge cluster hung. Smoke may have to be resorted to to dislodge the swarm and attempt to have them move into the temporary hive which still hangs in the tree.

The second swarm to leave the original bee tree in the First Reformed Church yard within the past few days was observed early this morning. There was much activity about the hollow tree at the entrance on Wall street and by 10 o'clock this second swarm had begun to collect high up on a branch of the maple tree which houses the present swarm.

The activity of the bees caused a crowd to collect on Wall street and there was much speculation and advice as to just what should be done.

MEN'S CLUB TO ENTERTAIN LADIES FRIDAY EVENING
Friday evening the active Men's Club of the Elmendorf Presbyterian Church will entertain the ladies in the church hall on Tremper avenue. A program of pleasing entertainment has been arranged, the men are planning novel refreshments, and the club officers are looking forward to a most successful celebration of Ladies' Night.

Memorial Day afternoon nearly 50 men and women of the Elmendorf Street congregation gathered at the Y. M. C. A. camp as the guests of the Men's Club and enjoyed an afternoon and evening of carefree enjoyment. The Old Married Men society overcame the hall team of the Nearby Married Deacons, but were repulsed in the last inning of play. Some of the members showed their aptness in burlesques by teasing singers comically, and perhaps if they were challenged, could be induced to compete with a team from some other local church. After a picnic supper, many took rides in the several camp busses, after which an old-fashioned dance was held in the lodge under the musical guidance of Mr. Purdee, of Park and Allen. Members in this active organization are not limited to members of the Presbyterian denomination, but is open to all men of the vicinity who enjoy an evening of good fun and fellowship together.

Action For Damages And Counter Claim

and struck are defendant's car. Plaintiff said he made no reply but later Sergeant Lockhart took a flashlight and looked over the tracks on the roadway which indicated the Essex had never crossed the roadway but that the Dodge had turned to its left and crossed to the east side of the road. While the Troopers were examining the car in the ditch Mr. Hendrickson, according to plaintiff's testimony, said that the accident had been caused by himself and that he would pay for all damage to the D'Aigle car. Plaintiff said he called Sergeant Lockhart up to the road and asked defendant to repeat the statement. This was done and defendant asked Mr. D'Aigle not to have him arrested. Later plaintiff claims Hendrickson visited his home and again promised to pay.

Defendant denies responsibility for the accident and claims that the Essex was driven at a fast clip by Mr. D'Aigle and that at the time of the accident the Essex was on the center strip and that the wet, foggy weather and speed of the plaintiff's car was responsible for the accident.

N. Levan Haver appears for plaintiff and Kopaid and Haft appear for the defendant.

No. 197, Jack Seiken against James Manion, a negligence action, went over the term due to illness of brother of plaintiff.

A motion was made to put Nos. 228 to 232 inclusive over the term on the grounds the defendant was ill. Judge Schirick directed that the defense counsel provide a doctor's certificate. Chris J. Flanagan, attorney for plaintiffs, objected to the cases going over and stated he would ask for term fees in all cases and witness fees in one case if the cases went over. They are negligence actions brought by Mary E. Darbee, Mabel Decker, William Decker, Joseph Schaffer and Harold Decker against Joseph Crocchiolo and another. Justice Schirick reserved decision pending the furnishing of a physician's affidavit.

No. 216, Clifford Longendyke against Lorenzo Drexler, et al., a negligence action was announced as settled.

There will be no trial term Friday as Justice Schirick will hold a regular special term here that day.

Can Be Reduced
Syracuse, N. Y., June 5 (AP)—Tax delinquencies—one of the big headaches of city and village officials—can be reduced, Harold R. Enslow of the State Department of Taxation and Finance told the New York state conference of mayors and other municipal officials today in annual meeting. He listed a nine-point program for accomplishing such reductions.

Files Petition to Issue and Sell Bonds

Ernest R. Acker, president of Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation, has announced that a registration statement under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, was filed on June 4 with the Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D. C., in connection with the proposed issuance of $2,765,000 Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation first and refunding mortgage bonds, 3 1/2 per cent series due in 1965. He announced also that a petition had recently been filed by the corporation with the Public Service Commission of the State of New York, requesting permission to issue and sell these bonds.

In due course, after the corporation receives permission from the Public Service Commission and after the registration statement filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission becomes effective, the corporation proposes to sell these bonds to a banking group consisting of Edward B. Smith & Company, Kidder Peabody & Company, Estabrook & Company, Lazard Freres & Company, Inc., all of New York city, and Stroud & Company, Inc., of Philadelphia. Following the sale of the new bonds, the corporation expects to call for payment at 105 per cent of its par value all of the presently outstanding issue of Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation first and refunding mortgage gold bonds, 5 per cent series due 1937 and, at 107 per cent of its par value, all of the presently outstanding issue of Kingston Gas & Electric Company 5 per cent first mortgage gold bonds due May 1, 1952.

Mr. Acker stated that the principal effect of these transactions would be to defer the maturity of the corporation's outstanding callable bonds until 1965, and to reduce the coupon rate thereof from 5 per cent to 3 1/2 per cent, with an ultimate saving in net interest charges after the costs and expenses of the entire operation have been provided for.

S-43 In Trials
Bridgeport, Conn., June 5 (AP)—The S-43, giant flying boat, took off on her first test flight today at the Sikorsky aviation corporation's ramp in the Housatonic river at Stratford Point at 10:03 a. m. (Eastern standard time). The S-43, believed the world's fastest amphibian plane, got away to a perfect start with Capt. Boris Sergievsky, chief test pilot for the Sikorsky Company, at the controls. Company officials did not immediately disclose the records the craft would attempt to better.

LaGuardia May Run Backed By Roosevelt

New York, June 5 (R).—A sweeping new alignment in New York city politics was forecast today in a published report that Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia would enter the Democratic primaries in 1937 against the forces of Tammany Hall.

He will run for re-election, backed by President Roosevelt, said the Daily News in a copyrighted story today, in a primary campaign that will bring together the New Deal wing of the Democratic party and the fusion forces which swept the mayor to victory in the 1933 mayoral elections.

Such an alignment, the Daily News said, would be shaped to aid the President's own campaign for re-election, tending to cut down the expected Tammany defections from the Roosevelt standard.

Tammany, which reluctantly supported the President in 1933, is reported to have broken with the national administration because of disappointed patronage aspirations.

The mayor has insisted he will not be a candidate two years hence, but according to the News, he changed his mind in order to push his campaign for lower utility rates. The President is reported to have promised LaGuardia support for his projected municipal power plant if the mayor runs again.

Tammany opposition to the mayor's power issue was regarded as a foregone conclusion, for the mayor already has encountered Tammany stumbling blocks to his program in the board of estimate.

Even though the mayor was defeated in the primary battle, he would still be able to run for office as an independent.

Martial Law Warning Credited To Roosevelt, If Labor Measures Fail

Congressional Leaders Say President Fearful of Future Peace Over Nation Unless Helpful Legislation is Enacted.

Guffney-Snyder Coal Industry Proposal Also an Important Item in Capitol's Action.

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press)

Washington, June 5.—A warning that martial law will be necessary to cope with unrest unless the Wagner labor disputes and the Guffney-Snyder coal stabilization bills are enacted was attributed today to President Roosevelt.

Several high congressional leaders who discussed the matter with him said he used almost these exact words—that the two bills were "indispensable to prevent the necessity of martial law." The informants, who are men in high posts, preferred not to be quoted by name.

It became clear that the two measures most vigorously demanded by union representatives were high on the President's "must" legislative list.

The United Mine Workers are arranging for a strike in the bituminous coal fields beginning June 17. Their leaders assert 450,000 mine employees will be involved. The President referred to this in his talk with congressional leaders, and spoke of possible consequences.

One of the participants in yesterday's White House conference said the President was told there would be trouble getting the Wagner bill through the House.

One Democratic chief in that branch reported that at least 150 House members had expressed a desire to avoid a vote on the bill. He added that trouble would result if it were forced to a vote.

Senators Robinson (D-Ark.) and Harrison (D-Miss.) replied, it was said, that they had entertained similar fears before the Wagner bill was brought up in the Senate. They recalled that it was passed by an overwhelming majority and with little debate.

The House conferees said, however, that before the bill could be brought up on the floor it would have to be approved by the House rules committee. One added that he knew of only one sure vote out of the nine in that committee for the bill.

The President was reported to have insisted, nevertheless, that the bill be pushed.

The Wagner bill would set up a labor relations board with power to order collective bargaining elections, and outlaw "company-dominated" unions. It would provide for "majority rule" in collective bargaining. The Guffney-Snyder proposal would provide for control of production, wages, hours and fair trade practices in the bituminous coal industry.

JACK OF TWO TRADES

This, as everyone knows, is an age of specialization. Our educational systems tend more and more to fit men and women for some particular calling. The high schools have been emphasizing vocational work, and it has been especially noticeable lately that the young people with such definite training along a certain line get jobs most readily after graduation.

A vocational expert, however, rises up to sound a warning against carrying this principle too far. There is still much to be said, he insists, for the "jack of all trades." Or at least for the jack of two or three trades. The Great Depression has proved the value of varied ability as much as the Great War proved the value of specialized ability. In vast numbers of cases the individual skilled in only one thing has spent years vainly seeking a chance to do that thing. The individual not so good in any line, perhaps, as the specialist, but at least useful in more than one line, has proved himself more adaptable to new conditions, better able to light on his feet and keep going when he loses any particular job.

The moral is clear. As long as our economic system is not fully organized and stabilized—and this may be a long time—it is well to know how to do one thing expertly and one or two things of a different nature pretty well.

COMICS IN CANADA.

The comics have long been regarded as a typically American vice, weakness, or moronic manifestation,
but we no longer have to bear the disgrace alone. The Vancouver, B. C., Sun recently held a popular feature competition, offering $50 in prizes for interesting answers. It asked readers to tell which of its regular features they liked best.
Thousands of readers from all over British Columbia answered, and the shocking results showed that of 51 features in the Sun, the highest number of votes (1,556) went to the comics.

Editorials came second with 1,439 votes. General news was third.
The medical column got 67 more votes than the sport pages. The daily cross word puzzle, which the paper tried in vain to drop a few months ago but had to retain because of reader demand, seems to have slipped much in the meantime, for it received only 316 votes. The complete novel was at the bottom of the list.

It is true that the great American public is agitated daily by the misadventures of its syndicated comic characters, but no more jeers and sneers should be permitted, now that it is known our dignified Canadian friends are likewise agitated.

SUPPORT OF RACKETS.

Two contemporary evils hard to do anything about are perjury and rackets. For some reason juries take little interest in perjury cases and hesitate to bring in convictions even when guilt seems clear. Consequently prosecutors bring few perjury cases to trial. Racketeers are prosecuted infrequently because most of their victims are afraid to give evidence against them. Sometimes a storekeeper or other sufferer from racket shakedown will go so far as to complain against the prosecutor, but often he refuses later to appear on the witness stand and even taken back his original complaint.

There have been lately a few cases in which perjurers and racketeers have met with just punishment because some citizen has been courageous or indignant enough to back up the forces of justice with his own information and cooperation. Obviously there are two evils which the public should not only so long as it is so cowardly or too easy-going as to fight them. Law enforcement au-pends as much on popular support of officers of the law as on the officers themselves.

BILLIONS OF CREDIT

It is generally accepted now, since the defeat of the greenback bonus bill, that there will be no currency inflation this year, at least; and if there is any kind of inflation it will be credit inflation. That is the kind we had in the old boom days. Properly regulated, it is the safest kind.
Excess reserves of banks belonging to the Federal Reserve are said to be nearly $2,500,000,000, providing a base for a credit expansion of $25,000,000,000. That sum is about half of our present national income from all sources. It represents quite a bit of credit. Half that much would mean a vast spur to business activity, especially in the "heavy" industries where stimulation is so much needed.

It cannot be too often repeated,
however, that any deliberate credit expansion, through general agreement of bankers or by direction of central banking authority, must be definitely and continuously controlled. It was lack of judgment and control of credit in 1928 and 1929 that pushed stock speculation and commodity prices up to such perilous levels and precipitated the big crash.

That Body of Yours

BY
James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act)

IDEAL METHOD OF REDUCING

Those who are overweight are usually willing to take any drug or extract that they think may reduce their weight but they are usually most unwilling to do the two things that they know will reduce their weight—take less food and take more exercise.

Now to those who are not overweight cutting down slightly on food or increasing slightly the exercise is no real hardship; they do not feel weak from the smaller quantity of food nor do they mind taking a little more exercise because they have no surplus weight to handle when they exercise.

But to an overweight who has a big appetite to satisfy and a big body to handle when exercise is taken, less food and more exercise means the use of great will power
—more than those of normal weight can really understand or appreciate.
Yet if overweight would go at this reduction of weight in a business like manner they would achieve results that would more than repay them a return to their normal shape or figure and an increase in health and strength. And this increased strength not only means less liability to illness, but an increased desire for work or exercise.

While cutting down on food is naturally a little more popular than increasing exercise, yet of the two exercise gives the quickest and most satisfactory results. When the food intake is reduced the fat goes off the body at a certain rate of speed because the body uses it instead of the food that was not eaten. This of course is very satisfactory, but does not add strength to the individual except to the extent that the fat that is used up allows the body processes to do better work.

However when exercise is taken not only does the fat of the body get used up but the active muscular work produces a substance which uses up much more of the fat than when little or no exercise is taken.
Further, sugar that is stored in the liver and tissues also gets used up and so further decreases the weight.
Thus while the ideal method of reducing weight is by cutting down on the food and increasing the exercising, of the two exercise gives the best and most lasting results.

APPLIED PHYSICS COURSE

TO FIT FOR INDUSTRIAL LIFE

Rechester, N. Y., June 5 (AP).
The University of Rechester has announced a new four-year course in applied physics designed to fit students for industrial positions where requirements are for engineers with a broader knowledge of fundamental and theoretical physics.

Considerable training in advanced chemistry will be included in the course, Prof. Leo A. Durrig of the department said. Only a small number of colleges and universities in the United States offer the course.

A prominent British scientist says that Americans are still children when it comes to handling money matters. And when he recalls the way in which we have fallen down on collecting what England owes us he is inclined to agree with him.

ister of war and one-time head of the Chapter 33

DISMISSAL

"I WON'T keep her a minute—"

"What's all this? What's all this?"

Robert had joined in, drowning Guy's voice and Peter's stately reply. "What? What? What're you doing here? Huh?"

"I want to speak to Miss Rode just for a minute."

"She's busy. She can't see you."
Her father's gruffest tone.

"I can wait."

"No need to wait. I tell you, my daughter can't see you."

"If you'll just allow me to see her for one moment and explain—"

But Guy was not even allowed to finish.
Robert exploded.

"Explain? Explain what? There's nothing whatever to explain. You came into this house on false pretences—yes, on false pretences—and you won't do it again! No, don't interrupt me! Most disgraceful conduct! Only what one might expect I suppose, but I can tell you, if I was a younger man—"

"Alison!" Guy took two steps across the hall towards her. She had come down the stairs and was standing at the foot of them, torn by her feelings, uncertain what to do.

"Alison, leave this to me!" and to Guy: "Now! Get out before I send for the police!" ordered her father.

Robert was red as a turkey-cock and bristling; Guy looked so white so haggard and worried that it gave her a fresh shock. He had no hat on and was wearing the same clothes that he had had on when she left him in the street, but now he had a desperate air and he did not give an inch. Disregarding her father, he spoke to Alison in a quiet, incisive voice.

"I must speak to you."

"What do you want to say?" She glanced apprehensively at Robert, who snorted.

"If you could spare me a minute alone?"

Robert broke in. "I forbid you to do anything of the kind! Go and wait with Daphne and let me deal with this—this!" He choked back the last word, glowering at Guy.

But Alison stood her ground.

"Just a moment, father," said to Guy. "If you're anything or anything I think you'd better say it here."

"They had the hall to themselves," Robert said, with the air of a good sneak, had retired, probably to listen from behind the door.

"Well!" barked Robert.

"I only want to say this," Guy spoke to Alison; when he stood like that, so near and looking at her, she felt herself weakening. "You've found out, of course, that what I told you wasn't true. I can understand your being angry. But will you believe me when I tell you that I had a perfectly sound reason for not telling the truth? It's rather a long story and I can't tell it to you now—"

he glanced quickly at Robert, who stood waiting with bared teeth and anger. "But can you believe that?"

"I DON'T know," Alison was honest.

"Difficult not to believe him when he stood there, looking like a penitent schoolboy. Yet—"

"Could you just try?" There was a faint glimmer of hope in his eyes now.

"Nonsense! Don't listen to the fellow, Alison!" her father broke in.
"Haven't we heard enough about him?"

"Would you mind telling me, at least, what you have heard?"

Guy's voice was cool, harder than his own.

"I've heard enough to damn you in the eyes of any decent person!" Robert flung it at him. "I don't wonder that you're ashamed to use your own name."

"Would you mind being a little more explicit? Cool and dangerous.
The pale blue eyes had a lightning glitter in them now.

Robert snorted like an angry bull.
"Perhaps you'll understand if I tell you that I've heard all about a lady named Trevor," he retorted.

"Ah! May I ask who told you that particular untrue and shameful story?" Guy seemed unmoved, except for a faint hint of menace in his level voice.

"You may, but I'm under no obligation to answer," Robert snarled.

"You didn't hear it by any chance from a Mrs. de Guy, or she may call herself Paynter?"

The Farm Credit Administration

Politics at Random

WHEN developments tell the complete story, it may appear that political history of the highest order was written in the supreme court on that celebrated afternoon of Monday, May 27.

Of course it is not unusual for acts signed by a President to be rejected by the highest court. That happens often, and usually no political consequences follow. In this instance, however, the specific points of disagreement are politically interesting.

It happens that much of the current criticism of the administration is based on three charges: "Regulation" of private business, invasion of private property rights, and a tendency toward high-handed-ness and dictation.

The court discussed all of these points. It held NRA went beyond constitutional warrant in regulating private business; that the farm mortgage act passed by administration left-wingers and signed by the President unduly interfered with property rights; and that presidential removal of a federal trade commissioner overstepped presidential authority.

That excerpts from these opinions

By SYRON PRICE
(City of Bureau, Associated Press, Washington)

of the court will be quoted many times in the 1936 campaign in doubt by no one who understands the materials campaigns are made of.

Left Many Bewildered

FOR the points involved have been looked upon by many as basic to the "new deal."

The principles of NRA, in particular, have been espoused by administration spokesmen with a fervor reminiscent of the patriotic appeals of warlike. To have the codes trampled under foot, and the stirring exhortations of the President himself answered in the chilling phrases of judicial negation, was a shock which left many Roosevelt supporters completely bewildered.

Evidence that the court's words struck home along a broad front was provided by administration leaders in congress. As soon as they heard what the court had said, they overhauled almost the entire program of pending legislation, to see how much would have to be redrafted.

There was a widespread realization that in an important sense the "new deal" itself had come up against a united and determined court.

And that was only another way of saying that the "new deal" had come squarely up against the constitution—unless it is assumed that all nine justices, including the most liberal, were mistaken as to the meaning of the constitution.

Amendments Talked

REDUCED in this manner to its simpler form, the situation offers a most enticing field for political speculation.

It should be remembered that the highest court does not concern itself with the question whether the provisions of the constitution are infallible: it merely interprets those provisions as it finds them. Granting that the nine justices were correct in the interpretation delivered on May 27, the question at issue becomes this: should the constitution be changed?

No one doubts that reverence for the constitution has suffered greatly, among various classes of voters, in recent years, a test of sentiment on that subject, during a presidential campaign, would not be an impossibility.

Whether it means anything or not, it is to be noted that some administration men, seeing no other course left, already are talking about amendments. It is yet to be developed whether Mr. Roosevelt himself will come to the point where he will advocate such a course in 1936.

A black-framed profile portrait of the late Joseph Plisudski, mustachioed marshal of Poland, wearing his uniform as chief of the army, appears on Poland's mourning stamp for her virtuous daughter, former premier, minister of war and one-time head of the state.

Issued in 25-groszy denomination, shortly after the marshal's death May 12, this stamp is designed with severe simplicity. It honors a man who was a revolutionist practically from boyhood.

Plisudski was born in the province of Vilna on December 5, 1867. His parents, of aristocratic Lithuanian stock, trained their son to struggle against Russia. The World War gave him opportunity to lead the Poles in opposition to Austro-Hungarian and German plans. Eight years after the armistice, he headed an uprising that seized the reins of his "land and redeemed."

The first mourning stamp was the U. S. 12-cent memorial issue of 1923. Following it have come Russia's Lenin issue of 1924; Lithuania's black-edged issue for Dr. Jonas Bassanavicius in 1927; Germany's set for President Paul von Hindenburg in 1934; and the recent mourning issues of Belgium, Congo and Belgian East Africa for Albert, King of the Belgians.

St. Trophime d'Arles

France has issued a 3.50-franc brown stamp in new design, as well as new denomination. The ancient cathedral of St. Trophime at Arles, which is on the Rhone in southeastern France, contributes the scene of this miniature engraving. The colonnade of the cloister appears through arched portals, exemplifying the fine old Romanesque architecture for which the cathedral is famous. The place is named for St.
Trophimus, who lived in the first century.

Belgian Diligence

The Brussels exposition set of three stamps depicts one of the old four-wheeled public stagecoaches, known as a diligence, rolling swiftly along behind five galloping horses.
The design is repeated on all three stamps. Denominations are 10-cen-

Summer should be a period of rest and relaxation for the children—a time when they may restore the energy which school and lack of sunlight have consumed in the winter months.

But in their eagerness to give rest and health to the children many parents have gone to such an extreme that the young people exhaust themselves having a good time, and end the summer worn out and demoralized.

Life is not and cannot be lived at such extremes, and when these youngsters come to looking for jobs the prospect of settling down to the steady grind, year in and year out, comes as a distinct shock. There are scores of them out of work now, not because they cannot get some kind of work.

Going to bed at all hours and sleeping late next morning, to spend the rest of the day loafing about beaches and swimming pools or running about in motor cars, is no preparation for life. But up to about 14 and often longer, the rest of American and its parents consider this the normal way for children to use the summer. The adults, meanwhile, are working as usual, and while they may complain of their children's idleness, they, in the end, conform to the mob psychology. "Everyone does it.
Why should I make my children different?"

If from childhood up regular hours are insisted on even during vacations, parties made the exception, and a certain number of hours a day devoted to some kind of work, whether mental or physical makes no difference, the children will be happier and their future outlook more hopeful.

Sun-down Stories

In The Salad

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

QUACK-QUACK. How-do-you-do,
quack-quack. How-do-you-do.
The guests were all greeting Mrs.
Quacko and she was smiling her sweetest party smile and was a happy duck to be having such a lovely party.

"Such a lovely party," some of the guests said.

"How well you're looking,
my dear duck," others remarked.

"What a lovely party," said some.

"Didn't the food look simply delicious. It makes our duck heads water, thinking that soon we'll have some of it."

"You must eat all you can. That's what it's here for," answered Mrs.
Quacko.

Mrs. Quacko was still feeling annoyed. She spoke to some of the little ducks.

"Was it true that you had Indians visiting Puddle Muddle? And they told her all about their guests."

When one of them showed her Mrs. Quacko's painted feather which had been given to her by the Indians, it was all Mrs. Quacko could do to keep from becoming very angry.

The little ducks continued passing the food around on leafy trays which were fastened on supporting twigs. But the sight of the fine painted feather the little duckling was showing Mrs. Quacko, together with his description of what the Indian chief had said to Mrs. Quacko, proved too much for her. She meant to tell it to all the ducks and make attention. Instead she fell right back into the big pond. She had said that had not yet been touched.

passed saying: "It is impossible to pick one who above all others can be named the most outstanding in

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—Literally hundreds milled around the doors leading to Senate galleries in the vain hope of getting so much as standing room inside to see the senate vote on whether President Roosevelt's veto of the soldiers' bonus would be overridden.

Speaker Byrnes probably couldn't have obtained a quorum under any circumstances at his end of the capitol, so clustered up was the rear of the senate chamber with members of the house "playing hookey" that they might see the show.

But there probably wasn't an individual in the whole assemblage who entertained any doubt as to what action the senate finally would take. The 64-46 vote, which lacked three-fourths majority to bust the veto, came as a distinct anti-climax.

What had been accomplished behind the scenes? Not the fact that the senate's refusal to override the veto would mean that the bonus would be overridden. A new senator—Thomas of Utah, who delivered two veteran bonus speeches—delivered such a learned speech in his behalf that senators started a parade to his desk to offer congratulations when he had concluded.

Tell Him Now!
If with pleasure you are viewing any work a man is doing,
If you like him or you love him, tell him now;
Don't withhold your approbation till the person makes oration,
And he lies with snowy lilies o'er his brow;
For no matter how you shout it, he won't really care about it;
He won't know how many tears drop you have shed;
If you think some praise is due him, now's the time to slip it to him,
For he cannot read his tombstone when he is dead.

More than fame and more than money is the comment kind and sunny
And the hearty, warm approval of a friend.

For it gives to life a savor, and it makes you stronger, braver,
And it gives you heart and spirit to the end;

If he earns your praise, bestow it; if you like him, let him know it;
Let the words of true encouragement be said.

Do not wait till life is over and he's underneath the clover,
For he cannot read his tombstone when he is dead.

Correct this sentence: "I don't want you to do that for me because you have already done too much."

Jasper—But, Alfred, why don't you like girls?

Alfred—They're too darn biased. Jasper—Biased? What do you mean?

Alfred—Yes, biased, I mean. Bias this, and bias that, until I'm flat broke.

Dynamite Is Found Near Quezon House

Manila, P. I., June 5 (AP).—Over opposition to Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine Senate, fired into the open again today when 11 boxes of dynamite were found buried near his summer home at Baguio in the mountains of Luzon.

The dynamite, enough to have blown Quezon's home to bits, had been stolen from a Manila city construction camp.

It was immediately supposed that assassination of the island's majority political leader and probable first president was planned as soon as he arrived home from a trip to the United States to make final arrangements for establishment of the Philippine Commonwealth government next November 15.

Quezon is en route from Shanghai to Manila on the liner President Coolidge with Governor General Frank Murphy. He is scheduled to arrive here June 12.

The plot disclosed today is the third within two months against Quezon's life. On April 18 charges of sedition were filed against seven persons at Saraya, Tayabas Province. Prosecutors claimed to have uncovered a plot by members of the Sakdalista (immediate independence advocates) party to assassinate Quezon.

A few days ago, an unconfirmed report was widely circulated here that Mrs. Quezon had received an anonymous threat of death to the Quezon family.

This same overt opposition to Quezon's leadership was generally credited with being a partial cause of the sudden Sakdalista uprising of May 2, when 60 persons were slain in several days of widespread rioting.

KINGSTON HOME BUREAU

UNIT PICNIC ON JUNE 19

The Kingston Home Bureau unit will hold its picnic at Mrs. Ford's cottage at Williams Lake, Wednesday, June 19. Transportation may be arranged by calling Mrs. Jones, 339-R or Mrs. Palmer, 2137. Cars are to leave between 10:30 and 11 a. m. Those planning to attend the picnic are requested to bring with them cups, plates, a knife, fork and spoon and napkins. For the benefit of those who do not know where the Ford cottage is located, signs will be placed which will direct those attending. All members of the Home Bureau are requested to be present as the program for the following year will be arranged.

Soft Ball Contest
First Presbyterian soft-ballers will battle with the men of the Saugerties Community Club tonight at Forsyth Park in a church league game scheduled for 6:30. The Presbyterians are last year's league champions, and expect to work hard to retain the title this season. No charge or collection is made at the games, and the general public will find them exciting entertainment and good sport.

$40,000,000 Federal Funds For New York

Albany, N. Y., June 5.—Provision for receiving and disbursing $40,000,000 of federal funds for public works construction in the State of New York was made by the 1935 Legislature.

Under an act introduced by Assemblyman William Schwartz of New York city the comptroller of the state is authorized to receive from the federal government "reimbursement up to and including the amount of $40,000,000, if, as and when appropriated . . . for use and expenditure by the state through the department of public works for public improvements in the state including engineering, supervision and inspection."

Under the law the $40,000,000 "is hereby appropriated . . ." in anticipation of the federal government providing the State of New York with federal moneys to be used . . . for public improvements within the state.

The act specifies that the appropriation shall not become available until the public improvement projects have been approved by the proper federal authorities. It is also stipulated that "nothing in this act shall be construed to affect the federal moneys as may be furnished to the state under the congressional act providing for federal aid in the construction of rural post roads."

Hauptmann Composes Music In Death Cell

New York, June 5 (AP).—Bruno Richard Hauptmann, while awaiting his appeal two weeks hence from conviction for the slaying of the kidnapped Lindbergh baby, composes music, his attorney, Egbert Rosecrans disclosed today.

"Hauptmann composes the words and some of the music," said Rosecrans, "and three other inmates of the Trenton death house join him in their rendition."

The "death house quartet," Rosecrans said, includes one negro who has an excellent voice.

"When I saw Hauptmann yesterday the four of them were singing one of Hauptmann's compositions," said the attorney. "It was some sort of a love lit, but I don't remember the words."

"The prison authorities have no objection to their harmonizing unless they get boisterous or hilarious."

Rosecrans reported that from their cells the condemned men dictate games of pinocle and checkers. They cannot see each other, but their normal speaking voices are plainly audible along the short corridor that runs the length of the death house cell block.

"Hauptmann looked well, everything considered," Rosecrans said. "Because he cannot exercise outside his cell, he has taken on a pronounced prison pallor and he has grown stout. His hair is cropped short, like that of every other prisoner, but not as some reports would have it, shaved on top for application of the death chair's electrodes."

TWO CANDIDATES FOR UNION COLLEGE DEGREES

Schenectady, N. Y., June 5.—Among the candidates for bachelor degrees at the 139th annual commencement exercises of Union College, which will take place on Monday morning, June 10, are Edward B. Thomas of Kingston and Hugh E. Elwyn of Woodstock.

The honorary chancellor for this year's will, as usual, make the principal address at the commencement exercises. This year's honorary chancellor is Dr. Charles A. Beard, America's outstanding historian whose books on American history are standard in most schools and colleges.

Mr. Thomas is the son of Arthur E. Thomas of 23 Crown street and prepared for Union at Kingston High School, where he was active in publications and debating and a member of the Athletic Association. He is a candidate for the bachelor of arts degree. At Union he was on the dean's list for high scholarship in his freshman, sophomore and junior years, and participated in varsity debating in his freshman year.

Mr. Elwyn is the son of George H. Elwyn and prepared for Union at Kingston High School, where he was an honor student and a member of the Athletic Association and the Banking Council. He is a candidate for the bachelor of arts degree. At Union he has been consistently on the dean's list for high scholarship, and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa in his senior year. He holds a Stage Appointment, a graduation honor given to the 10 highest seniors in the class. He was a member of the Phi Theta Kappa Society, debating organization, and has participated in varsity debates. He was candidate manager of basketball in his freshman year, played hockey in his freshman and senior years, and has been on the varsity lacrosse team for the last three years, for which he has won his letter. Elwyn holds the William L. Oswald Scholarship. Last year he was a member of the Union College delegation representing Hungary at the Model League of Nations Assembly at Bucknell University. He is a member of the senior Cap and Gown Committee. Elwyn is affiliated with the Union chapter of the Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity, of which he was president in his junior year.

Vassar Professor Received

Rome, June 5 (AP).—Premier Mussolini today received Prof. Elizabeth Hamilton Haigh of Vassar College, who presented him with 12 books on Italy and classical subjects written by members of the department of Classics of Vassar. The presentation was in celebration of the 2,000th anniversary of Horace. Following her interview with E. Duce, Professor Haigh said the Italian leader appeared greatly pleased with the extent of the study of the classics in America.

LYONSVILLE

Glamorous History Is Behind Sears, Roebuck Co. Store to Open Here

(With the opening of a Sears, Roebuck and Company store in the Van Wagenen building on Wall street in the near future the history of the concern becomes of especial interest to the people of Kingston and Ulster county. The story that follows shows the growth of one of the world's largest stores from the smallest possible beginning.)

A shipment of watches arrived at North Redwood, Minn., back in the year, 1886, and was not wanted by the jeweler there because he was a careful and conservative man and did not propose to take the chance of becoming overstocked. The station agent at North Redwood was young Richard W. Sears. The watches looked like opportunity to him. He gained permission from the wholesale company that shipped the watches, to dispose of them.

The young man hit upon the scheme of trying to sell the watches by mail and sent letters to railroad men he knew. The watches went "like hot cakes" and young Sears found himself with a powerful merchandising idea. He immediately started developing it and soon was doing a surprising amount of mail order business in his spare time.

In a few months, the spare-time job had attained an importance far greater than that attached to his duties with the railroad, and the young man could see that its potentialities were without limit. So just a little past the age of 20, Richard W. Sears moved to Minneapolis and founded his first mail order house.

In a short time he moved to Chicago and 1889 had made for its founder a sum of money which by the standards of the eighties, was a considerable fortune. Richard W. Sears was of English ancestry, and his father, who was a blacksmith and wagon maker, had a prosperous business that resulted in the accumulation of quite a fortune for those days. He, however, lost it all in a stock farm venture when Richard was about 15 years of age. It fell to the youth to help support the family and when he was about 17 years of age he obtained a position with the Minneapolis & St. Louis railroad in its general office in Minneapolis. There he conceived the idea of working as a railroad agent where possibly he could sell something in his spare time. This led to his appointment as station agent at North Redwood.

Sears started his mail order business with hand-written letters. By the close of the year 1886 he had made sufficient money to launch into the business on a larger scale and he returned to Minneapolis. Feeling the need of a more central location as his trade continued to increase, he moved to Chicago, late in 1887 and went into business under the name of R. W. Sears Watch Company. By this time Sears was advertising in newspapers and periodicals with national circulation and the business was growing at a tremendous rate.

Then he advertised for a watchmaker to take care of his watch adjustments and timing and A. C. Roebuck applied and was accepted for the position. Roebuck also was of English ancestry. His great grandfather came from one of the earliest colonies in Virginia and was one of the two first settlers in Mercer county, Ohio. His father was a superintendent of construction for bridges on the Wabash railroad and lived in Lafayette, Ind., when A. C. Roebuck was born.

Early in 1889 Sears sold his watch business. By this time he had made a fortune of $100,000 and planned to go into the banking business in Iowa but after becoming thoroughly rooted and still being greatly interested in selling merchandise, he started a mail order watch and jewelry business in Minneapolis in partnership with A. C. Roebuck, later forming a corporation under the name of A. C. Roebuck & Co., which continued in business under that name until 1893. At that time the name was changed to Sears, Roebuck and Co.

In 1894 the two men started expanding their business, adding bicycles, clothing, sporting goods, harness, in fact a general line of the heavier merchandise. Again feeling the need of a more central location, headquarters for the company were moved to Chicago.

The first Chicago location was on Adams street near Halsted, where a five-story building was occupied. By 1896 the business had grown so rapidly that much larger quarters were required. In April of that year the company moved to the corner of Fulton and Desplaines streets, occupying a building several times larger than the one on Adams street. Roebuck sold out his interest in 1895 and soon after retired from the business. Julius Rosenwald buying an interest in it. At that time the company was incorporated with a capital of $150,000 and Sears was elected president and Rosenwald vice president. Sears was writing advertising copy for some $50,000 to $60,000 worth of newspaper space a month with a circulation of approximately 30,000,000 copies.

By 1905 the company had occupied all available space in many buildings in the neighborhood of its store. By this time the business had reached a total of almost $40,000,000 a year.

A site along the right-of-way of the belt line railroad, the great rail distributing system in Chicago, was obtained. Here the company built a merchandising building comprising almost a 1,000,000 square feet of space, an office building occupying about one-half a city block, a four-story printing building and a power house. The new quarters were moved into in 1906. This Chicago building has been enlarged repeatedly until it now comprises 3,500,000 square feet of floor space.

The huge plant on the west side of Chicago had been erected and the first substantial branch of the company was established at Dallas, Texas. A mail order house was erected there to take care of the company's business in the southwest. Four years later, another mail order house was built in Seattle.

With Chicago executing the company's business in the west and middle west and Dallas and Seattle serving respectively the southwest and northwest, no more regional units were required by the company until eleven years later. In 1921 a new building campaign started in Philadelphia where a huge store was erected to serve the eastern seaboard and the middle Atlantic states.

Then in 1925 the building campaign was resumed and continued at top pitch until the dedication of the Boston mail order house in the late summer of 1928. The building program after the Philadelphia plant was performed as follows: 1925, Kansas City; 1926, Atlanta; 1927, Los Angeles and Memphis; 1928, Minneapolis and Boston.

The most important development in the affairs of Sears, Roebuck and Co. since 1925 has been its retail store. In the larger metropolitan centers the company establishes complete retail department stores. Retail stores of a modified type are established in the less populous cities.

The first retail establishment of Sears, Roebuck and Co., was opened in 1925 at the Chicago plant, headquarters of the company's parent organization. Immensely prosperous from the start, this first store heralded the success attained by the stores that followed it in every part of the country.

Soon the company had built other department stores in Chicago. Retail department stores were established in all of the new mail order houses which developed rapidly between 1925 and 1929. In the meantime, the company began building department stores in other cities.

The complete retail department stores of which there are 69 are designated "A" stores by the company. The smaller retail stores numbering 299 are called "B" stores. There are 50 still smaller stores known as "C" stores and handling principally auto tires and accessories. There are 418 retail stores in all.

HIGH FALLS

High Falls, June 4—Mr. and Mrs. Don Gillespie of Stone Ridge and Mrs. Mary Beach and sister, Miss Fannie Elmendorf, had lunch and spent the afternoon in Woodstock on Sunday.

Mrs. Julia Steen, who went to see her daughter, Mrs. Reuben Barrett, at the Kingston Hospital, found her more comfortable.

There were 17 present at the evening service at The Clove chapel on Sunday.

Peter Krom of The Clove cut the lawn at Locust Harvest cottage on Monday, en route to the High Falls cemetery where he is working and keeping things in a fine condition.

Mrs. Martha Hasbrouck of Brooklyn has returned home after spending a few days with relatives here, and attending the funeral service of Thomas Snyder.

John H. Ayres and W. L. Krom motored to New Falls on Sunday afternoon and called on Simon Yeaple. They had a very pleasant call and were made most welcome by the family.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Gerard and children of Belleville, N. J., spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ruter Ten Haven.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Benda and friends of Newburgh visited their home here in the village on Sunday.

HINTS ON HOME IMPROVEMENT

Many Cooperating In Kingston Better Homes Building Program

It is very interesting to note the many firms that have cooperated with the Kingston Better Homes movement under the F. H. A. supervision—surely those that have cooperated in this intensive campaign to produce more business and put men to work and increase sales of merchandise have shown wholehearted cooperation. The Freeman has supported and taken great interest in the Kingston Better Homes movement from the start and the columns of the paper have carried news of importance to home owners who have planned modernization, repairs or alterations and The Freeman will continue to support this movement. There are many in the building trades who do not realize the value of cooperating in this plan to improve conditions, they should do so now because of the gradual increase in building. If you are a building contractor, plumber, or whatever trade you represent, connected with modernization or new buildings and are not represented in and keep in touch with The Kingston Better Homes Program movement through the offices at the Municipal building then you miss the opportunity to secure some of the business that comes through this office.

A Little French Cottage Has Many Intriguing Features

Do you like your things to be a little different from other peoples? Do you like your clothes to be just a little more distinctive and a little more outstanding than those worn by others? Not ostentatiously conspicuous—but quietly distinguished, in a pleasing, refined way. If you do—and who doesn't—you'll like this home, for it has an atmosphere of good taste and elegance seldom achieved in a home costing so little.

It's a little French cottage in which the architect has very cleverly combined a tufted, weather-boarded, brick, stone and wood shingles, into an exterior of eye-pleasing proportions and practical livability. Without effort, this little cottage nestles down to the "good earth" as naturally as though it had grown there. Like the shrubs, vines, and trees around it. You look at it and know that it "belongs", which is a feeling every home should convey.

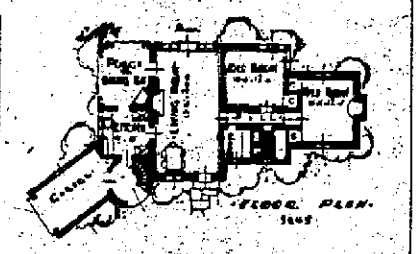

Look at some of the distinguishing features—things you don't see in every home. For example: The general shape, size, and outline of the chimneys—they're different; the intriguing little turret; the delightful angle at which the garage is attached to the house; the bedroom and dining room porch fireplaces—these are distinctive touches seldom found in homes costing as little this.

In building, watch and street landscaping. It is the important background which brings out the charming qualities of your house. Try and following the architect's recommendations as they are indicated on the drawing shown above. Landscaping expense is repaid at least ten times by increased value, provided it is done intelligently.

The interior has been cleverly and carefully planned. The living room—13'6" x 20'0"—extends the width of the house. In one corner, there is indicated the possibility of using part of the living room space for dining purposes. Opposite and to the rear of the kitchen is a space that is designed for use, either as a dining room or outside porch. In one corner of this space, there is a fireplace, already mentioned. On the other side of the kitchen is a doorway leading—via the turret—to the garage and basement. Incidentally, this same turret has an entrance to the inside.

Two bedrooms and a bath form another wing. They are well-mentioned and supplied with plenty of closet space. In one of them there is the most attractive fireplace, which gives this room more interesting possibilities than any other in the house. What a nice combination bedroom and study it would make; or what a thrilling room for some girl or boy of school age; or how about it as a library? The things you could use it for are unlimited.

Touches like this make for interest in a home. They keep it from being just another house. The additional cost involved is so small as to be almost negligible; and when compared with the joy and pleasure derived, is inconsequential.

Strange as it may seem, it will not cost much to duplicate this home. Because of varying conditions it is impossible to tell just what the cost will be without consulting the working drawings. The blueprints show the important details necessary to build the home in the manner intended by the architect.

We suggest that you send $1.00 to Home Features Service at 84 Mobile Avenue, N. E., Atlanta, Georgia, for the complete working drawings. Place them in the hands of a reliable contractor and let him prepare an estimate of the cost for you.

Wood Construction Finds Marked Favor

The marked tendency of builders towards lumber in residential construction is readily apparent in the large volume of homes built of wood. The reason for lumber's strong appeal is that the beauty of the wooden home is individual, particularized and cannot be duplicated in any other kind of material.

Appreciating that many annoyances connected with home ownership can be eliminated with intelligent and efficient building practices, lumbermen from all parts of the country are actively engaged in educational campaigns designed to further the knowledge of the building public about these lines. Laboratory tests have proved that the insulating qualities of lumber are equal and in several instances superior to those of many materials usually advertised as residential insulators. These tests prove conclusively that the most reliable property of lumber can be secured of a home that is warm in winter and cool in summer, at a reasonable cost of erection. Lumber is solution, furthermore, since that the three factors of a room—walls, ceiling and floor—are under effective best control at all times.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel ever and anon and the world looks pink, don't consider a lot of extra, unnecessary, and expensive medicine or surgery and expect them to make you healthy and energetic and full of vitality.

For they can't do it. They can't move the bile. The more you don't get at the cause, the more you are depending on drugs to your liver. It should pour out two pounds of bile into you, twice daily. If it doesn't, you are suffering from liver trouble. It is just that simple. You don't want to be ailing. You want to be healthy. You want to be strong. You want to be full of vitality. You want to be full of energy. You want to be full of life. You want to be full of joy. You want to be full of happiness. You want to be full of love. You want to be full of peace. Repeal, Says Feminist, Worse Than Dry Era

Detroit, June 5 (AP)—Lucretia Longshore Blankenburg, of Philadelphia, 30-year old dean of club women who introduced the controversial subject of birth control to the General Federation of Women's Clubs, says she expects to see a resolution adopted by the triennial convention here approving dissemination of scientifically controlled contraceptive information.

Mrs. Blankenburg, in a surprise address at the Hot Springs convention of the federation last year, brought the subject to the floor for consideration, and a resolution was adopted there to make the subject of birth control one for study by some 2,000,000 club women of the country.

She will be a speaker at this convention, and says she may have another "liberal" bomb shell to toss in for consideration.

As she sat in a conference of proponents of the birth control resolution, she predicted "another Roman ruin" unless the birth of feeble minded be checked from weakening the race.

"We face another problem in this country," she said. "It is that of repeal. I believe that conditions since repeal are obviously much worse than during prohibition, and that they will continue to get worse."

Mrs. Blankenburg left no doubt that she did not favor the NRA. "I don't know if the President can find enough oxygen to revive the Eagle or not," she said. "Personally I hope not. I don't believe that anyone can make a law to compel all intelligent people to do the same thing."

The convention was opened last night with addresses of welcome and a pageant.

Eight resolutions covering birth control, anti-lynching, legislation, universal fingerprinting, the World Court, pure food and drug legislation, child labor and national representation for the District of Columbia were offered for consideration of the convention today, but will not be acted upon finally until next week.

To Graduate from Elmira College

Miss Louise S. Harder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred L. Harder, of 80 Clinton avenue, will graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree from Elmira College on Monday, June 10. It will be the 80th commencement at Elmira with about 100 in this year's class. The program starts with the June play by the Seniors on Saturday evening. Dr. Frederick H. Lent, president of the college, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday and Class Day exercises will be held on the campus Monday morning. Dr. Hough, dean of Drew Theological Seminary, will be the speaker at the graduation exercises in the afternoon. Afterwards, there will be a reception for the graduates and guests at Dr. Lent's residence. Miss Harder carried a double major in English and in law and finance. She won the Delta Sigma Rho pin for membership in that national debating society and her "E" for honors in athletics. She was class president in her Junior year and is now president of the Student Government Association of the college as well as president-elect of the 1935 Chapter of the Alumnae Association. Miss Harder is on contract to teach in the Warwick High School at Warwick, N. Y.

114 Bodies Identified. Mexico, D. F., June 5 (AP)—The bodies of 114 victims of the floods which swept down on the nearby village of San Pedro and surrounding communities, had been identified today. Officials said there was little prospect that the exact number, who perished in Monday's disaster, ever would be known but placed the number of dead at approximately 400.

We don't know who paid the expenses of the NRA leaders to Washington, if anybody did. But at any rate, from the amount of money they made and later results, it wasn't worth it.

MODES OF THE MOMENT

A chiffon jacket costume for warm days in town.

Liana Merwin

Sheer and filmy chiffon is about the most desirable fabric one could have for real warm weather wear. For jacket costumes and ensembles rating so high in fashion's favor, chiffon net or lace are the ideal fabrics. Even with the jacket on, there is the assurance of a cool day in town no matter what the thermometer may register.

Many of the new colors are of the wine shades such as dubonnet, muscatel and claret. Lilac in all of its shades is having a fling and will carry on right through the summer months.

The jacket dress of dubonnet chiffon shown above is a stunning affair, including a hip-length fitted jacket and a one-piece street-length dress. The wide revers on the jacket and the bell-shaped three-quarter length sleeves are trimmed with self pleating.

A high smart-looking neckline on the frock closes with pleating and self-flowers. The sleeves are short and slit to shoulder, using a repetition of the pleated trimming. The fullness at hem is achieved by circular cutting for graceful walking comfort.

Bernhardt S. Kramer To Receive Degree

Green Vegetables Aid Health; Make Summer Meals Attractive

Consumers May Use Fresh, New York Grown Vegetables of Many Varieties

By PETER G. TEN EYCK
Commissioner, Department of Agriculture and Markets
Albany, New York

GREEN vegetables, especially the leafy kinds, and yellow carrots, containing carotin, are the first and fundamental sources of Vitamin C. They also furnish many important minerals, such as iron, the important element of most tonics; also calcium and phosphorus. These elements are the real "elixirs" of life which make

Then comes asparagus, a most cosmopolitan plant, friendly to all nations and climates. On our menu today it is a prized delicacy in such forms as cream of asparagus soup, asparagus tips with drawn butter. Parsnips also appear with their stimulating flavor and tang. Rhubarb, too! We all love its sour tang so unforgettable, there merely the sight of the firm juicy red and green stalks in the market makes one's mouth water.

Then comes lettuce, ready for the table as soon as washed. What a delicacy and health giver it is! What a beautiful sight, are the long rows of green lettuce against black soil, covering acre after acre in Oswego, Orleans and Wayne Counties. These and many other beautiful tempting fresh vegetables to purify and cleanse your system and restore "pep" and energy have already been grown and harvested for you by the busy New York State Farmers. Soon will come home-grown New York State gooseberries, currants, cherries, strawberries, the sweetest and tastiest of all, and raspberries.

You will find them all piled high producing beautiful color combinations, crisp, fresh and appetizing in the city markets and stores or on the farmers' wayside stands.

You Wouldn't wear clothes like this!..

But You May Be Using A Gas Range That Dates Back Farther...

NOTHING DATES your home so quickly in the minds of your friends as the range that stands in your kitchen. And the unfortunate part of it is that, unlike old-fashioned clothing, an old-fashioned range makes you extra work, too.

Before you decide whether or not your present gas range is good enough, check it for these points, which you will find in a modern gas range.

1. Porcelain inside and out, for easy cleaning.
2. Oven heat insulation, for comfort and economy.
3. Smokeless broiler for easier and tastier cooking of meats.
4. Automatic tap-lighters for safety and convenience.

Then visit the stores of gas range dealers advertising in these pages, and see for yourself what a thing of beauty the modern range can be.

It's fancy in linen, shantung, rough peasanty cottons in plain or peasant prints, cyclot batiste, shirting cottons, handkerchief-finish lawn prints, etc. These materials are so suitable for the hotter months and so cool and cleanly to wear.

Just a bit more dressy but charming too is white or pastel tub silk for today's pattern.

Style No. 2872 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18 years, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust. Size 16 requires 1 1/2 yards of 39-inch material for short sleeve blouse.

BARBARA BELL FASHION PATTERNS

Pattern No. 1672-B

Beautifully Cut Slip with Fitted Lines

Today's model is really a triumph. It's like a brassiere is extremely comfortable and with the aid of tiny darts gently molds the bust. The line about the waist and hips is smooth and close, and the skirt is sufficiently full for ease in walking. The back is cut in a deep V so that it may be worn with low-backed frocks, and the armholes are deeply pointed, too, which is a good idea for warm weather underthings. Of course, there is a shadow-proof panel in the back of the skirt, a feature which no self-respecting slip is without.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1672-B is designed in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 40 and 42. Corresponding bust sizes 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 (34) requires about 2 1/2 yards of 35 inch material.

Cutwork is Handsome And Easy to Do

PATTERN 5171

Color—decoration—durable needlework—all these are the qualities of this choice cutwork design. The quaint girl of crinolines days makes a handsome decoration on a bedspread. Or you can use the corner motif on scarfs, tea-cloths or other small linens. You can do the motif in a variety of colors or in the color of the linen. It will show up the design most effectively if you place a contrasting color under the bedspread and other bedroom linens. If you wish your entire room done in this design, you will find matching motifs in the companion pattern 5193.

In pattern 5171 you will find a transfer pattern of a motif 16 x 18 1/2 inches, and of two and two reverse 6 1/2 inch corners; complete instructions for making cutwork with illustrated stitches; material requirements and suggestions for uses.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to the Kingston Daily Freeman Household Arts Dept., 388 W. 14th street, New York, N. Y.

Ends in Victory.

Douglas, Isle of Man, June 5 (AP).—The general strike which tied up transportation in this popular Irish sea resort and left inhabitants without lights or motion pictures, ended today in victory for the transport workers, who initiated the walkout. They were granted an increase in wages amounting to six shillings (approximately $1.50) a week.

Detailed Instructions.

Vienna, June 5 (AP).—With the arrests of Nazis in the government's latest anti-Nazi drive totaling 40, including officials of the federal chancellery, the attention of authorities today was called to the Communist menace in the army. The pro-government newspaper, Linzer Volksblatt, printed detailed instructions which it alleged were circulated among Communist agents containing helpful hints on how to turn underpaid soldiers into revolutionists.

It is said that a part of the $4,800,000,000 appropriated by Congress will be used to prevent beach erosion along the Atlantic coast of New Jersey. The simplest way would be for the government to hire a lot of fat gals in bathing suits to sit in the sand and keep it from washing away.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

CLAYTON & JACOB

New York, June 5 (AP)—Wall Street cast a critical eye on mid-week business statistics today and found them moderately reassuring. The stock and sensitive staple markets, however, paused after yesterday's brisk rally. Much of the share list lifted fractions to a point, but the trend was mixed. The business statistics indicated that the collapse of NRA had cut into trade less than expected, but bulls decided to proceed cautiously.

Shares which managed to rise fractions to a point included American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Loew's, Warner Bros., Air Reduction, Allied Chemical, Sears, General Electric, Westinghouse Electric, Caterpillar, Philip Morris, Liggett, and Myers "B". National Biscuit, Santa Fe, Union Pacific and Pennsylvania. Coca Cola jumped 4 1/2 in a thin market. Some of the leading steels, motors, and non-ferrous metals, however, were sluggish. U. S. Steel, General Motors and Anaconda lost small fractions and U. S. Smelting more than 2 points.

Hicks Is Supported
 Troy, N. Y., June 4 (AP)—Oswego Hicks, well-known Communist who blamed "fascistic red hysteria" for refusal of Remondet "syndicate" to renew his contract as assistant professor of English, today had the support of the National Committee for Defense of Political Prisoners in his fight to get back his job. The committee yesterday issued a statement, declaring the Hicks case is "representative of the growing repression of free speech in academic circles." The statement was signed by Lincoln Steffens, Upton Sinclair, John Dos Passos, Sherwood Anderson, Elmer Davis, Louis Adamic, John S. Vincent, William L. B. Smith, and others.

Government Plucks Rich "Sweeps" Plum

Washington, June 5 (AP)—The United States treasury will take approximately 34 per cent of the winnings of Americans in the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes on the Epsom Downs Derby.

Calculations by the Internal Revenue Bureau showed that the government's stake in the $1,488,910 winnings on the first three horses would be $504,044.

The seven Americans holding $148,500 tickets on Bahram, the winner, would be forced to pay to the government $57,748 each in income taxes.

The calculations were based on a married man with no dependents, which would entitle him to an exemption of $2,500.

The four Americans holding $75,250 tickets on Robin Goodfellow, which finished second, would owe income taxes of $18,390.50, while the three holding the $49,470 tickets on Field Trial, which came in third, would owe $3,748.70 income tax each.

Interesting Papers Read at Historical Society Meeting

Two most interesting papers were heard at the literary session of the June meeting of the Ulster County Historical Society, held in the lounge of the Governor Clinton Hotel at 11:30 this morning. The first was a paper on the old stone houses of the town of Esopus, read by Judge G. D. B. Haasbrouck, president of the society. The judge had evidently expended a great deal of time and labor in compiling his history of these old relics of Dutch days. His list was an extended one and the paper embraced much of description and incidental detail regarding the houses and their occupants, in which their ownership was brought up to the present time. He had had a photograph taken of one of the most interesting, the old Eskelet Terpening house, which was displayed for the benefit of the members of the society.

A second welcome
 At the conclusion of the applause which greeted his paper, Judge Haasbrouck said that he would repeat the cordial welcome which he had given to the few who were present at the opening of the season, many having arrived since that hour. He had not hitherto pressed the idea of a campaign for a larger membership in the society, but he suggested that if the society was to expand its activities a larger membership was needed; there should be at least 500 members to permit the society to take on added work and responsibilities. The judge said that the society should have in mind the idea of securing one of the historic old stone houses to serve as headquarters for their work. He announced that at a recent meeting of the Senate House Association, a room had been set aside for the use of the society, in which gifts and records might be safely preserved.

Paper by Mrs. Alton B. Parker
 Judge Haasbrouck then introduced Mrs. Alton B. Parker, paying a graceful tribute to her ability and referring to some of the positions she had honorably filled and the societies with which she is at present connected, saying that she occupied an important position among the women of the county.

Mrs. Parker read a paper on the life of her husband, Judge Alton B. Parker, compiled from his own memoirs up to the time he ran for the presidency, from an unpublished biography and from her own notes and recollection. It was a most interesting and well written account of the life of one of Ulster county's most famous citizens—a former surrogate, supreme court judge, chief judge of the court of appeals and candidate for the presidency.

There were 80 reservations for the luncheon of the society, held in the dining hall of the hotel at one o'clock. Mrs. Olive B. Sarre of Nanapanoch had charge of the program for the luncheon and presented the speakers, which included Mrs. Bruno H. Zimm and Miss Ellen LaMonte. Tables for the luncheon had been most attractively decorated by Mrs. W. L. Steiner.

G. A. Coleman Dies.
 Albany, N. Y., June 5 (AP)—George Armstrong Coleman, 69, deputy superintendent of the state banking department and widely known horseman and yachtsman, died at his home here early today after a long illness. Coleman had been with the banking department for 16 years. Before coming to Albany, he was in the real estate business in Poughkeepsie. He was born in Tranquillity, N. J. His interest in horsemanship dated back to his youth. For many years he was a director of the Dutchess County Fair. He was a judge many times at the national horse show in Madison Square Garden. His particular interest was in light harness horses. Survivors include the widow, Mrs. Cecilia Coleman; and a brother, Anson H. Coleman of Jersey City.

Awake Orders.
 London, June 5 (AP)—Joachim von Ribbentrop, Reichsfuehrer Hitler's adviser on armaments, apparently was forced to await fresh instructions from Der Fuehrer. It was believed in well-informed naval quarters today, following the abandonment of plans to continue the Anglo-German naval conversations this afternoon. Following a brief morning session at the admiralty office, the German delegates were the guests of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald at a luncheon at No. 10 Downing street. Discussions relative to naval strengths will be resumed tomorrow by the delegations, and it is now believed the talks probably will extend over the week-end.

President at Last Session
 London, June 5 (AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald presided today over what the politically informed believe will be his last cabinet session as head of the government. The Scottish statesman, who became prime minister for the second time six years ago and has since held the office without interruption, is expected to visit Buckingham Palace Friday to offer his resignation to the king. It is believed King George will then summon Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the council, and request him to take over the reins of government.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Jacquin have rented their cottage down on the Greenkill road to parties from Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Freidell of Kingston visited his father, Mr. Freidell, and daughter, Nellie, one day last week.

James Hotelling, who has been ill for the last few days, under the care of Dr. G. R. Rymph, is slowly improving. His daughter, Mrs. W. F. Conner, of Mohawk Lake, spent the week-end with him and her brother, Neal Hotelling, and family.

Banyo-Connors

Miss Evelyn Connors of 64 Brewster street and John Banyo of 135 First avenue, were married on June 2, by the Rev. James P. Moore of St. Mary's Church. The attendants were John Connors and Miss Anna Banyo.

Dittus-Stock

Mrs. Katherine A. Stock of 115 Spring street and Arthur L. Dittus of 10 Spruce street, were married on June 3, by the Rev. W. H. Kennedy of St. Mary's Church. They were attended by Miss Ann Lenehan and Edward Dittus.

Tierney-Fisher

A very pretty wedding took place in St. Joseph's Church, Sunday, June 2, when the Rev. Father Burke united in marriage Miss Annamie Fisher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Fisher, of 34 Boulevard, and Frederick Tierney, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Tierney, of 216 Ten Broeck avenue. The bride looked charming in a gown of white satin with a cap shaped veil caught with orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses. Miss Marion Fischang, cousin of the bride, acted as bridesmaid. She wore a gown of pink mousseline de Soie with a hat and slippers to match and carried pink roses. Lester MacEvory, brother-in-law of the bride, acted as best man. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents at 34 Boulevard. Following a short honeymoon trip through New York state they will reside at 128 Smith avenue where a newly furnished apartment awaits them. They have the best wishes from their many friends for a happy married life. Guests were present from New York City, Yonkers, Brooklyn, Connecticut, Ashokan, Stony Hollow, Bloomington, Saugerties and Kingston.

MT. MARION
 Mt. Marion, June 5—On Friday Mr. and Mrs. Bryant Winant left for Huguenot Park, Staten Island, where they will make their home in the future.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Dimmler of Brooklyn, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Beck, returned to their home Sunday.

Earl Johnson, of Coxsack, and formerly of this community visited Mr. and Mrs. George Gillison on Memorial Day. Mr. Johnson's friends will be glad to hear that he has secured a good position.

The next meeting of the Mt. Marion P.T.A. will be Tuesday, June 11, at the schoolhouse. Mrs. Eason of Saugerties will install the newly elected officers. Mrs. John Dedrick is the hostess for the evening.

The children of the Sunday School and their teachers are working hard to make Children's Day a success and hope there will be a large attendance to share in the observance of the day.

Miss Virginia R. Thorpe of Richmond Hill, L. I., arrived Monday to spend her vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Abram Bogert.

Evacuation Hatched
 Kansas City, June 5 (AP)—Thousands of lowland dwellers, hatched the evacuation of flood threatened homes and farms today as the crews of the water-borne Missouri and Kaw rivers raced to the junction here. The crews to higher ground resembled the flight of sea-combatants before an approaching enemy. Having stored their large household articles in second stories of dwellings and hay bales, farmers left for the hills driving their stock before them. Laborers worked desperately to strengthen dikes and railroad embankments.

Normandie Sailed Tonight
 New York, June 5 (AP)—Diplomatic and social fanfare over the triumphant maiden voyage of the new French liner Normandie will reach a climax tonight at a gala diplomatic ball aboard ship. Mrs. Albert Lehren, wife of the president of France, glimpsing America as a round trip passenger, is expected to preside with Andre de Laborde, French ambassador. Tomorrow there will be another party for stateroom agents, complimentary notices and on Friday the ship will slip down the Hudson river bound for Le Havre.

Furlin And Sharkey Bout Looks Like One With Action Galore

Some real hard slugging should be the outcome of the main bout on the American Legion card of scraps Friday night at the open air stadium thinks Matchmaker John J. Flinerty, Jr., who has paired Jack Sharkey of West Point and Joe Furlin, Middletown welterweight, for the feature attraction.

Sharkey, avers Sergeant James M. McCabe of the Point artillery, is one of the best boys on the reservation and can "lick his weight in wildcats". He's a good mixer, always willing to fight and can punch hard.

Furlin, fighting against Frankie Kouhout of Kingston on the last Legion card, was a demon in action, stopping "Kouhout" before the scheduled route. The hard slugging Middletowner also holds a knockout over the shifty Tony Restifo of Albany, one of the best welters in the A. A. U. organization.

Those who saw Furlin stop Kouhout here and Restifo in Catskill and who know how hard Sharkey fights agree that the main bout on Friday's bill of scraps is one of the most promising offered the boxing fans of this community in some time.

Supporting the 'Furlin-Sharkey' match is a list of bouts that look like a real good set of prelims that should vie for the spotlight and may steal some of the "thunder" away from the gladiators in the star attraction.

The rest of the card follows:

Semi-Final, 5 Rounds

Benny Ross, 145, Mechanicville, vs. Rocky Scott, 142, West Point.

Special 5 Rounds

Phil Eliska, 142, Albany, vs. Johnny Filkins, 142, West Point.

Preliminaries

Frankie Kouhout, 160, Kingston, vs. Gregory Butnick, 158, Albany, 3 rounds.

Johnny Edwards, 125, West Point, vs. Charlie Fozzelli, 130, Albany, 5 rounds.

Young O'Hagan, 130, Ellenville, vs. Joe Turck, 126, Kingston, 3 rounds.

George Warrington, 145, Catskill, vs. Ralph North, 142, Catskill, 3 rounds.

Bill Woerner, 145, Catskill, vs. K. Miller, 143, Kingston, 3 rounds.

Reserved seats are on sale at the Legion building and the way orders are being received indicates a record turnout of fans for the first outdoor show of the season.

Golf Stars Warm Up For National Open

By BOB CAVANARO, Associated Press Staff Writer.

Pittsburgh June 5 (AP)—The old army game of putting the pressure on the other fellow has taken hold of the preferred players in the National Open Golf Tournament, which starts tomorrow at Oakmont.

It's a trick as old as the foothills of the Allegheny Mountains surrounding the long, nerve-testing layout. The only thing new about it is that the boys who try to "out-psychic" each other are getting better at it every year.

The game works something like this: You walk up to the eight highly-fancied contestants and ask them individually who they think will win the title.

For example, Gene Sarazen, winner of the title in 1922 and 1933, likes the chances of Johnny Revolta of Milwaukee, and the stocky little campaigner looks puzzled and scowls his best scowl when informed that he's picked by no less favorite players than Big Olin Dutra, the defending champion, and Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., one of the hottest of the pre-tournament favorites.

Harry Cooper of Chicago, who tied with Tommy Armour, a fellow townsman, with 301 in the 1927 tourney here and then lost to Armour in the playoff, rates Picard as the man to beat, while Armour says Dutra is the golfer of the hour. Craig Wood, the betting blond from Deal, N. J., is sounding the drums for Armour but on the other hand Wood himself is the choice of the early-haired Revolta.

The object of all this home pocus is to put the strain on the other fellows, when as a matter of fact Sarazen, Dutra, Picard, Wood, Armour, Revolta, Cooper, Paul Runyan, the P. G. A. champ, and some others actually think highly of their own chances.

Comforter Soft-Ball Team Has Two Games

Tonight at 8:30 at Hasbrouck Park, the Comforter Softballers play their first league game against the Holy Cross representatives, and Friday night at the Pan-Am Field on the Sangertown Road, the Comforters will meet the Central Hudson team. Members of the Comforter Team are requested to meet at the church hall on Wynkoop Place at six o'clock on both nights. Either Craig or Will-Bane will toss them over for the churchmen.

Schryvers-Dairymen Washed Out; Hercules, Hairdressers Tonight

The game scheduled for Ad Jones' Dairymen and Bill Schryvers' Lumbermen was called on account of rain Tuesday evening. At the Athletic Field this evening at 8:15 the Crystal Beauty Shoppe and Hercules will tangle. This should prove an interesting battle as a win for either one will put them in better standing in the City League.

The Hairdressers have lost only one game this season and are right on the heels of the pace-setting Schryvers. A win for the Powdermen will drop the Hairdressers into third place while they will advance to second.

Ted Freleigh will be the Hairdressers' selection to take the mound. Joe Hoffman will do the catching. Eddie Scherer is slated to do the hurling for the Powdermen with Al Short behind the plate.

Massacre Year for Big Shot Batters

Chicago, June 5 (AP)—If it keeps up, 1935 will be known in major league baseball as the massacre year of big shot batting averages.

How come and why, not even the victims themselves can say. The general slump of the batting stars is one of the game's greatest mysteries. One checkup today showed that out of the 20 batting leaders of the 1934 season, only seven were batting above the 300 mark as the season entered the eighth week of play.

Only three of last year's leaders today had batting averages in excess of last year's marks. They were Joe Vosmik of Cleveland, who is batting .348 today as compared with his final mark of .341 last year; Jimmie Fox of the Athletics, a .334 batter last year and a .362 batter today, and Arlie Vaughan of Pittsburgh, who is batting .393 today or 66 points higher than his 1934 mark.

Lou Gehrig of the Yankees won the American League batting championship last year with a rousing average of .353. But today, his average stood at .275. Paul Waner, National League batting champion last year at .362, was batting .304. Al Simmons of the White Sox was another noted victim, batting only .262 with a third place team today as compared with a finishing mark of .344 with a last place club in '34.

And so it went down the line of the batting greats with Samson Pool of the Cincinnati Reds the greatest sufferer of them all. Pool batted .327 for the Reds last year. Today, his average was .176. The average of Pinky Higgins of the Athletics was off from .330 to .211.

Other comparisons, showing the final 1934 average and the present marks, respectively:

Helmie Matusch, Washington, .349 to .288; Hank Greenberg, Detroit, .339 to .284; Hal Trosky, Cleveland, .330 to .236; Kiki Cuyler, Chicago Cubs, .338 to .264; Rip Collins, St. Louis Cardinals, .335 to .279; Sam Leslie, Brooklyn, .332 to .235; Joe Moore, Giants, .331 to .268; Ethan Allen, Philadelphia Nationals, .330 to .288; Mel Ott, Giants, .326 to .312.

Annual Meeting of DUSO League Council

Eighteen representatives of the executive council of the DUSO League met in the office of Superintendent Van Ingen, Kingston, Tuesday afternoon, to elect a president to succeed Mr. Van Ingen and transact other business.

For president of the league for the ensuing year the Council named Arthur Naylor, superintendent of schools for Port Jervis.

There was a general discussion of league affairs, mostly matters of routine business, but no action was taken changing the policy of the league as carried out the past year.

Informal discussion of the possibility of the return to league membership of Poughkeepsie disclosed a favorable sentiment and apparently if Poughkeepsie should make formal application for re-entry into the league the application would be granted without opposition.

Following the meeting the council members were guests of President Van Ingen and the Kingston members at a buffet luncheon served in the cafeteria by the school cafeteria girls.

Those attending the meeting were: Kingston—Superintendent Van Ingen, Principal C. L. Dunn and Coach Warren G. Kline.

Newburgh—Superintendent M. W. Longman, Coach C. G. Stevens.

Middletown—Superintendent E. H. Bardick, Principal William A. Wilson, Coach J. Hughes.

Port Jervis—Principal Charles Marsh, Coach Alvin Chase.

Elkville—Principal W. H. Street, Vice-Principal Orville A. Bates.

Monticello—E. G. Lewis, representing the principal, K. H. Somerville, physical director.

Crews Prepared for Poughkeepsie Races

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 5 (AP)—Four of the six crews who will compete in the annual Poughkeepsie regatta here June 13 are expected to hold trial spins over the Hudson river course by Sunday.

The veteran Jim Ten Eyck will send four boatloads from Syracuse University through their paces today. Syracuse has not won the varsity race at the Poughkeepsie regatta since 1920 when it nosed out Cornell and Columbia in a blanket finish. The Orange varsity was second in 1920 and its freshman crew captured the yearling event in 1932.

With some of the members of the 1932 fresh champions in this year's varsity shell, Syracuse is rated as one of the strongest of the eastern contenders. The central New York oarsmen scored their greatest victory of the season recently when they defeated Harvard, Cornell and M. I. T. on the Charles river.

The Golden Bears from the University of California are expected to have their first workout on Thursday, the University of Pennsylvania crews on Saturday and the University of Washington on Sunday. Cornell is not expected to arrive until a few days before the regatta and no definite word has reached here regarding the arrival plans of the Navy.

Columbia, the only one of the six varsity crews that has looked unimpressive this season, held its fourth practice yesterday, a "long pull" over the course.

NATIONALLY KNOWN ATHLETES TO COMPETE AT AMSTERDAM

Amsterdam, N. Y., June 5 (AP)—For the second time within a week nationally known track athletes will invade eastern New York, competing tomorrow night in the Amsterdam Rotary Club's third annual track and field meet.

Heading the list of competitors are: Lou Gregory, Ithaca Olympian who won the 3,000 meter steeplechase at the last Penna relay carnival; Bruce Kerr, captain of Cornell and winner in the 3,000 meter race at the Cornell-Princeton meet a few weeks ago; Joe Murphy and Joe Eastwood, Manhattan College middle distance runners, and Walter Liddiard, former Syracuse University cross country man.

Of the quintet, Gregory and Liddiard are favored in the 8,000 meter feature race but they are expected to get stiff opposition from Russell George, full-blooded Onondaga Indian, who forced Gregory to an unofficial world's record a few weeks ago over the rugged Chittenango-Syracuse 17-mile course.

YOUNG HASTINGS COACH GETS "FOUR FOR FIVE"

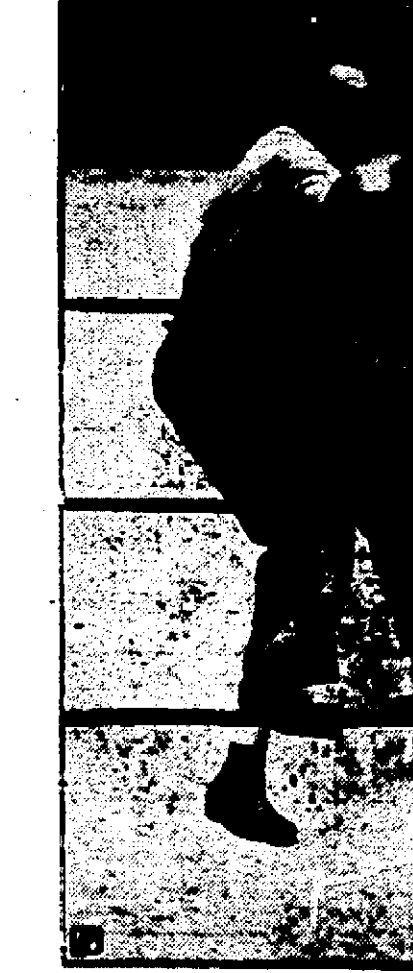

Hastings, Neb. (AP)—Thurlo E. McGrady, young athletic coach at Hastings College, has turned in four championships in his five chances since taking over the job here in the fall of 1932.

His first football team shared the Nebraska Collegiate conference title that fall with Wealeyan, and a year later won it outright. He was given charge of basketball and track in 1934 and he promptly produced the first cage title Hastings had ever won, following up with a track title, Hastings' seventh straight.

His only "miss" was the Bronchoes' failure to win the grid crown in 1934. McGrady was an all-around star in his undergraduate days here.

SULLIVAN TO BAER

A Pictorial History of the Heavyweights

XXI. CARNERA VS. BAER—1934

A bewildered, staggering giant—Prime Carnera—was led from the ring in Long Island hotel the night of June 14, 1934, after his crews after sustaining the most protracted and savage beating in modern boxing history, at the hands of Max Baer.

Eleven times in 11 rounds the Livermore Larrupier sent the massive Italian crashing to the floor while a crowd of 52,000 howled and shrieked its appreciation of the most spectacular battle since Jack Dempsey's two great fights, the slaughter of Jess Willard and the setting of Lou Angel Ferro.

Referee Arthur Donovan (shown here in an incident in the third round when, by grasping Baer's left arm he undoubtedly saved the new champion from disqualification by striking a fallow foe) stopped the fight after 2 minutes 14 seconds of the 11th round. His action was in response to a muttered word from Carnera which the Italian later said was not a gesture of surrender—but there were few, even so, to dispute the wisdom of his action.

Carnera went down three times in the first round under Baer's long, leaping right hand smashes; and three more in the second, dragging Baer to the floor with him twice in this stanza. Again in the third he was felled. Then, while Baer counted, Prime fought back, actually winning a few rounds between there and the 16th, when another furious onslaught sent him tumbling twice more, saved by the bell the second time.

After two more of those grotesque, smacking falls of the 243-pound Italian in the 11th, Referee Donovan halted the carnage and Baer took his place among the heavyweight champions as one of the most mercurious punchers of them all.

Maplecrest And Kaslich Meet Friday

Maplecrest, which it is stated will be represented by a crack ball team this summer, including a number of college players, will open their season Friday afternoon, when they will have as opponents the Kaslich A. C. of Kingston. Davis will probably pitch for Kaslich.

Sunday the Kaslich boys will go to Woodstock for a game with the team from that place, Celuch or Chambers being in the box for the Kaslich A. C.

STANDINGS

(By The Associated Press)

The upward path of the Brothers Deans has turned to a rocky road. The cocky pair have found that big league ball players have little consideration for their reputations and possibly never have read their scrapbooks.

Last year they hung up imposing records topped with brilliant world series accomplishments, but this year things have been different. Dizzy has won six and lost five games; Daffy has won five and lost four.

Players also are beginning to resent their attitudes. Yesterday Dizzy was suddenly walloped by the Pirates, and the Cards, striving to overhaul the Giants, were defeated 7-5. In the fifth inning after they had returned to the bench, Joe Medwick criticized Dizzy's constant use of a slow ball which, he averred, was ducksup to a good batter.

Dizzy, nettled by this affront to his pitching genius, told Medwick what he thought of him and the two assumed warlike poses. They were advancing on each other when other players stepped between them. Daffy was one of the first to rush to his brother's side.

The Deans Stick Together

Perhaps Daffy was thinking of the game with the Phillies on May 21 when he was accused of throwing a "bean ball" at Lou Chiozza. When Coach Hans Lohrert of the Phillies made the accusation, Daffy cocked his right and made ready for battle. Dizzy ran to his side and had to be escorted from the field.

Later Daffy hit Al Todd, with a pitched ball and the player dropped his bat and headed for the box. Again Dizzy rushed to his brother's aid. Players from both sides swarmed onto the field. It looked like a free-for-all until police intervened.

Cy Blanton pitched for the Pirates in defeating Deans and the Cardinals yesterday, and the victory brought the Pirates within half a game of St. Louis.

In the only other National League game, Gabby Hartnett led the Cubs to a 10-2 victory over Cincinnati by hitting a homer, a triple and a single, driving in six runs and scoring two others.

In the American League the Boston Red Sox defeated Washington 3-2, and the Browns took the White Sox into camp 11-1. The defeat dropped the fading White Sox back into third position behind the Cleveland Indians.

Kingston High Plays Poughkeepsie Today

The Kingston High School baseball team was scheduled to meet Poughkeepsie High at the Fair Grounds this afternoon at 4 o'clock in a return game to the one played in Poughkeepsie a week ago.

Poughkeepsie won the contest played in the bridge city by a score of 3-1. The game was lost on errors, each of Kingston's three errors leading to a Poughkeepsie run.

Kingston outthrew Poughkeepsie 4-3. The varsity lineups of both teams are ready for action. Lou Glenn who held Poughkeepsie to three hits in the last contest will be on the mound for the Kiammen. Poughkeepsie's twirler has not been named.

The success of Bucky Walters, made-over third baseman, as a pitcher with the Phillies recalls that last year Walter Johnson converted Ralph Winegarner, third baseman with the Cleveland Indians, into a first-rate hurler.

The latest baseball team to enter the field is that which will represent Battery A, 156th Field Artillery, and which is now in process of organization with Burton Streeter as manager. They expect to play their first game Sunday, against an out of town team. Full announcement will be made Friday.

Manager Streeter has the following players already listed: Lou Auchmoody, George Hefey, Floyd Nickerson, Walt Ransom, Coke Cuello, Spike Coons, Bill Currie, Alvin LeFever, R. Seim, Dutch Wolfsteg as well as Manager Streeter himself.

Battery A would like to get a game with the Modena A. C. Any team wishing games should call Manager Burton Streeter, State Armory, Wednesday nights between 6:45 and 7 o'clock.

LaGuardia May Run Backed By Roosevelt

New York, June 5 (AP).—A sweeping new alignment in New York city politics was forecast today in a published report that Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia would enter the Democratic primaries in 1937 against the forces of Tammany Hall.

He will run for re-election, backed by President Roosevelt, said the Daily News in a copyrighted story today, in a primary campaign that will bring together the New Deal wing of the Democratic party and the fusion forces which swept the mayor to victory in the 1933 mayoral elections.

Such an alignment, the Daily News said, would be shaped to aid the President's own campaign for re-election, tending to cut down the expected Tammany defections from the Roosevelt standard.

Tammany, which reluctantly supported the President in 1933, is reported to have broken with the national administration because of disappointed patronage aspirations.

The mayor has insisted he will not be a candidate two years hence, but according to the News, he changed his mind in order to push his campaign for lower utility rates. The President is reported to have promised LaGuardia support for his projected municipal power plant if the mayor runs again.

Tammany opposition to the mayor's power issue was regarded as a foregone conclusion, for the mayor already has encountered Tammany stumbling blocks to his program in the board of estimate.

Congressional Leaders Say President Fearful of Future Peace Over Nation Unless Helpful Legislation is Enacted.

Guffey-Snyder Coal Industry Proposal Also an Important Item in Capitol's Action.

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press)

Washington, June 5—A warning that martial law will be necessary to cope with unrest unless the Wagner labor disputes and the Guffey-Snyder coal stabilization bills are enacted was attributed today to President Roosevelt.

Several high congressional leaders who discussed the matter with him said he used almost these exact words—that the two bills were "indispensable to prevent the necessity of martial law." The informants, who are men in high posts, preferred not to be quoted by name.

It became clear that the two measures most vigorously demanded by union representatives were high on the President's "must" legislative list.

The United Mine Workers are arranging for a strike in the bituminous coal fields beginning June 17. Their leaders assert 450,000 mine employees will be involved. The President referred to this in his talk with congressional leaders, and spoke of possible consequences.

One of the participants in yesterday's White House conference, said the President was told there would be trouble getting the Wagner bill through the House.

One Democratic chief in that branch reported that at least 150 House members had expressed a desire to avoid a vote on the bill. He added that trouble would result if it were forced to a vote.

Senators Robinson (D-Ark.) and Harrison (D-Miss.) replied, it was said, that they had entertained similar fears before the Wagner bill was brought up in the Senate. They recalled that it was passed by an overwhelming majority and with little debate.

The House conferees said, however, that before the bill could be brought up on the floor it would have to be approved by the House rules committee. One added that he knew of only one sure vote out of the nine in that committee for the bill.

The President was reported to have insisted, nevertheless, that the bill be pushed.

The Wagner bill would set up a labor relations board with power to order collective bargaining elections, and outlaw "company-dominated" unions. It would provide for "majority rule" in collective bargaining. The Guffey-Snyder proposal would provide for control of production, wages, hours and fair trade practices in the bituminous coal industry.
